The allegations herein are based on personal knowledge as to Plaintiffs' own conduct and are made on information and belief as to all other matters based on an investigation by counsel:¹

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Car makers must design and manufacture their cars to be safe to operate. One of the most basic safety features in every car is the gear shifter that causes a stationary car to remain stationary unless and until the driver wants the car to move. The design of a gear shifter must be such that drivers know when a car is safe to exit because it is in the "Park" mode, and if a car maker decides to use a "monostable" shifter that does not change positions, it must include a safety override that automatically puts the car in Park or engages the parking brake when the driver gets out of the car.

2. FCA US LLC ("FCA," "Company," or "Defendant") broke this basic rule when it designed and manufactured cars with monostable shifters that did not provide a reliable method of determining gear placement and did not include any safety-override to prevent rollaway accidents. From 2012-2015, FCA sold or leased hundreds of thousands of vehicles throughout the United States that contained a concealed and dangerous gearshift design defect that places drivers and occupants of the vehicles as well as the public at risk for serious injury or death, meaning that all purchasers and lessees of these vehicles paid more than the vehicle was actually worth.

3. Plaintiffs Jeffrey Guy, Casey E. Perkins, Wisam Yacoub, David Goldsmith, Michael Vincent Nathan Jr., Pascual Pietri, Debra Felker, Justine Andollo, Erica Willis, Pamela Havnen, Kean McDonald, Lindsey Wells, Dustin Stewart, Bruce Pollekoff, Charles Frank Schultz, Bernadine Hartt, Berardino D’Onofrio, Scott Michael Youngstrom Jr., Todd Machtley, Melvin Scott, Corinn Berken, Taylor Brooks, Nina Walker, Eliam Marrero Bernal, Clare Colrick, John Lynd, Janella Mack, Michael Cruz, Andre Barfield, Jacob Gunnells, Brittani Sheppard, Danielle and Joby Hackett, Carol Clark, Todd Fisher, Timothy Weber, Bruce Vosburgh, John and Mary Metzger, Cris-Ann Craig, Kelli Foreman, Krystal Dial, Ashley Gillipsie, Robert F. Hyatt IV, Cameron Phelps, Jay Waggoner, Trevor Marble, Gerrett Beaudin, Karen Stedman, Cameron Webster, Marc Hughes, and Ann Magnuson (“Plaintiffs”) bring this class action against FCA, individually and on behalf of all persons in the United States who purchased, leased or own a 2012-2014 Chrysler 300, 2012-2014 Dodge Charger, 2014-2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee, 2014 Maserati Quattroporte or 2014 Maserati Ghibli equipped with a monostable electronic gearshift supplied by ZF Friedrichshafen AG (the “Class Vehicles”), for Defendant's fraud, negligent misrepresentation and concealment of the known gearshift defect in the Class Vehicles.

4. FCA installed gear shifters in the Class Vehicles that departed from the long established "PRND" gear selector that provided a distinct position of the shifter for each gear. Unlike traditional automatic transmission shifters, the Class Vehicles are equipped with a monostable electronic gearshift supplied by ZF Friedrichshaffen AG ("ZF"), which returns to a central predetermined position after a driver switches gears (the "Defective Shifter"). The Defective Shifter does not move into a physical gear position like a traditional shifter but rather springs back to its original position after a driver selects a gear. Thus, the only indication that a specific gear has been selected is that a light changes, i.e., when shifting from Drive to Park, the light changes from D to P. There is no physical Park, Reverse, Neutral or Drive gear level, and there is no safety override function that puts the Class Vehicles into Park if a driver attempts to exit the vehicle while it is in another gear.

5. The design of the Defective Shifter is dangerously defective because of the lack of a physical gear position that would clearly notify drivers regarding which gear their vehicle is in, and the lack of a safety override function that would automatically put the vehicle in Park or engage a parking brake when a driver attempts to exit the vehicle when it is not in Park. This dangerous defect has resulted in hundreds of accidents and vehicle rollaways as a result of drivers not knowing which gear their transmission is in and/or exiting their vehicle without the vehicle in Park.

6. The safety issue is real. As of February 2016, the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration (“NHTSA”) and the Office of Defects Investigation (“ODI”) (collectively, “NHTSA-ODI”) had identified over 300 incidents of vehicle rollaway and/or accidents following intended shifts to Park due to the Defective Shifter, including 121 incidents that resulted in crashes and 30 that involved injuries.² Injuries included fractured pelvises, a ruptured bladder, a fractured kneecap, broken ribs, broken noses, facial lacerations requiring stitches, sprained knees, severe bruising and trauma to legs.³ There were 325 additional complaints regarding Class Vehicle drivers’ difficulty shifting into Park.⁴

7. As a result of the consumer complaints, NHTSA-ODI investigated the Defective Shifter and described the defect as follows: “Drivers may exit the vehicle when the engine is running and the transmission is not in Park, resulting in unattended vehicle rollaway. Rollaway incidents may result in serious injuries to the driver or passengers as they exit the vehicle or to other pedestrians in the path of the rolling vehicle.”⁵

8. NHTSA-ODI’s testing indicated that operation of the Defective Shifter “is not intuitive and provides poor tactile and visual feedback to the driver, increasing the potential for unintended gear selection.”⁶ NHTSA-ODI also found that the functions related to the Defective Shifter in Class Vehicles “[do] not protect drivers who intentionally leave the engine running or drivers who do not recognize that the engine continues to run after an attempted shut-off.”⁷

9. NHTSA also concluded that the Defective Shifter “appears to violate several basic design guidelines for vehicle controls, such as: 1) be consistent; 2) controls and displays should function the way people expect them to function; 3) minimize what the user has to remember; and 4) operations that occur most often or have the greatest impact on driving safety should be the easiest to perform.”⁸

10. Although FCA has known of the Defective Shifter and associated safety risks since shortly after certain of the Class Vehicles were placed on the market in 2011, it has failed to act within a reasonable time to notify Plaintiffs and members of the Classes (defined below) of the defect and/or provide a remedy to protect them from the associated safety risks. Rather, FCA waited until April 22, 2016 to issue a recall for certain of the Class Vehicles and took months after the recall to offer the Company's purported remedy for its defective design of the Defective Shifter.⁹ Additionally, the recall and purported remedy do not fully compensate Plaintiffs and members of the Classes for either the decrease in value of their vehicle since the defect came to light or for their time dedicated to fixing the defect.

11. On or around May 14, 2016, FCA sent owners and lessees of the Class Vehicles a notification letter informing them about the Defective Shifter and associated safety risks, but offered no remedy or repair.¹⁰ Rather, FCA told consumers that “a permanent remedy for this condition is currently under development” and it “is working to finalize a remedy by the 4th quarter of 2016.”¹¹ Thus, as of May 2016, FCA left owners and lessees of Class Vehicles with two undesirable options: (1) have no transportation while FCA implements a remedy; or (2) drive a dangerously defective vehicle that puts drivers, occupants and the public at risk for injury or death.

⁹ See Exhibit C, Press Release, Statement: Shift Strategy, FCA North America, Apr. 22, 2016, ¹⁰ See Exhibit D (“May 2016 FCA Recall Letter”).

12. FCA has long known of the safety risks associated with the defect in the Defective Shifter. In FCA's own recall chronology it states that as of April 12, 2016, "FCA has identified approximately 700 field reports potentially related to this issue which includes 212 crashes, 308 claims of property damage and 41 injuries."¹²

13. Moreover, FCA recognized that the Class Vehicles contained a defect and stopped installing the Defective Shifter in certain 2015 and 2016 vehicles. As noted on its website: "To address customer-satisfaction issues, the Company began equipping the Charger and 300 with a new shift-lever design in model-year 2015. The Grand Cherokee's shift-lever was updated in model year 2016."¹³

14. In fact, the design defect was avoidable. For example, FCA competitors, including BMW, have for several years used similar monostable electronic shift levers that return to center after being engaged. But on the BMW, if the car is not in "Park," and the driver's door is opened and the foot brake released, the car automatically shifts into "Park." Likewise, the Audi A8 luxury sedan uses the same Defective Shifter that FCA used in the Class Vehicles. But Audi did not sell a single A8 equipped with the Defective Shifter until it had developed a safety override that automatically engaged the electronic parking brake on the car if the driver's door is opened while the seatbelt is unbuckled.

15. It is indisputable that from the time FCA first sold a Class Vehicle, it had the ability and technological capability to install a safety override that would have prevented the rollaway incidents that have plagued the Class Vehicles and caused hundreds of accidents, dozens of injuries, and at least one death. It simply chose not to do so.

16. On May 24, 2016, NHTSA submitted a safety recall report explaining FCA's acknowledgement of the defect as follows:

Drivers erroneously concluding that their vehicle's transmission is in the PARK position may be struck by the vehicle and injured if they attempt to get out of the vehicle while the engine is running and the parking brake is not engaged. *FCA US has therefore determined that the absence of an additional mechanism to mitigate the effects of driver error in failing to shift the monostable gear selector into PARK prior to exiting the vehicle constitutes a defect presenting a risk to motor vehicle safety.*¹⁴

17. On June 20, 2016, the public became aware of the significant safety risks associated with the Defective Shifter when it was reported that a young Hollywood actor, Anton Yelchin, was crushed to death when his 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee rolled backward down his driveway and pinned him against his mailbox after he exited the vehicle.

¹⁴ See Exhibit F ("NHTSA Safety Recall Report 1") (emphasis added).

18. On June 21, 2016, NHTSA submitted an updated safety recall report explaining that FCA is recalling over 800,000 vehicles in the United States equipped with the Defective Shifter in order to remedy its design defect.¹⁵

19. On June 24, 2016, FCA issued a follow-up recall notice to owners and lessees of certain models of Jeep Grand Cherokees.¹⁶ According to FCA, the Company's purported remedy would involve taking the vehicle to an FCA dealer, who would "install new software to include an 'Auto Park' feature which eliminates the possibility of the driver inadvertently failing to place the transmission into 'PARK' prior to exiting the vehicle."¹⁷ The letter also stated that the dealer would provide additional information and guidance regarding the new feature, stating:

You will receive an "Auto Park" addendum card explaining the vehicle's new "Auto Park" feature. After your vehicle receives the software update, please review the addendum card with all of the drivers of your vehicle and then store the addendum card in the owner's manual for future reference. Your dealer will also review/demonstrate this new "Auto Park" feature and answer any questions or concerns.¹⁸

20. To date, FCA's purported remedy has been ineffective, has led to additional rollaway incidents and other mechanical failures in the Class Vehicles, ¹⁵ See Exhibit G ("NHTSA Safety Recall Report 2").

¹⁶ See Exhibit H ("June 2016 FCA Second Recall Notice").

and has diminished the functionality of the Class Vehicles. Numerous complaints have been made to NHTSA describing incidents where Class Vehicles have experienced rollaway incidents after the software update was performed on the vehicles, and incidents where the software update led to other mechanical failures in the vehicles.¹⁹

21. On information and belief, dealerships have reported that the first recall remedy was ineffective, many of the Class Vehicles have had to be fixed more than once, and even FCA's own dealers are unsure whether the second recall remedy will effectively fix the Defective Shifter, thus requiring Plaintiffs and members of the Classes to devote even more time to remedying this defect.

22. FCA already has admitted that at least 13,000 Class Vehicles in the United States have not been properly fixed even though they were recalled and repaired by the Company. According to a November 16, 2016 Associated Press article: "The new software was supposed to make the cars and SUVs automatically shift into park when the driver's door is opened while the engine is running. But Fiat Chrysler says the change didn't properly fix 13,000 vehicles in the U.S. and 16,000 in other countries."²⁰ In addition, FCA sent certain Class members a second recall notice, informing them of the need to take their Class Vehicle to the dealership for additional repairs.²¹

23. Plaintiffs and members of the Classes were harmed by the Defective Shifter and recall in a number of ways, in that they, inter alia: (1) did not receive the benefit of the bargain of the purchase or lease of the Class Vehicles which were sold and leased as safe and reliable vehicles at premium prices even though they contained a known but concealed defect; (2) were forced to take time off from work and/or their daily activities in order to have the repair implemented (in some cases more than once); (3) own or lease a repaired vehicle which suffers from continued rollaways or other mechanical failures; (4) own or lease a repaired vehicle with diminished functionality due to the remedy instituted by FCA; and/or (5) own a vehicle that has substantially diminished in value and is diminishing in value at an increased rate each month and thus cannot be sold without incurring substantial losses.

24. As a specific example of the increased diminution in value, 2014 and 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokees held their value better than other cars in their class before knowledge of the shifter defect became widespread, but after the defect stories/business/2016/11/16/software-fix-fiat-chrysler_.html# (“November 2016 Associated Press Article”).

²¹ See Exhibit J (“Notice of Need For Additional Repairs”).

became known, the monthly depreciation of these cars increased drastically, causing them to hold value worse than other cars in their class.

25. While Plaintiffs and Class members were harmed by the recall, FCA benefited from and has been unjustly enriched by the recall which has forced hundreds of thousands of Class members to visit FCA dealerships nationwide in order to have their Class Vehicles repaired—without the need for FCA to spend millions in advertising and marketing to drive customers to its dealerships.

26. Defendant misrepresented the standard, quality or grade of the Class Vehicles and knowingly, actively, and affirmatively omitted and/or concealed the existence of the Defective Shifter to increase profits by selling additional Class Vehicles. Knowledge and information regarding the Defective Shifter and associated safety risks were in the exclusive and superior possession of Defendant and its dealers, and was not provided to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes, who could not reasonably discover the defect through due diligence. Based on pre-production testing, design failure mode analysis, and consumer complaints to dealers and NHTSA, inter alia, Defendant was aware of the design defect in the Defective Shifter and fraudulently concealed the defect from Plaintiffs and members of the Classes.

27. Plaintiffs and members of the Classes (defined below) assert claims against Defendant for fraud, negligent misrepresentation, violation of The Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2301, et seq., unjust enrichment, breach of express and implied contractual duties, breach of express and implied warranties, and violations of state consumer protection laws.

28. As a direct result of FCA's wrongful conduct, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes have been harmed and are entitled to actual damages, including damages for the benefit of the bargain they struck when purchasing their vehicles, the diminished value of their vehicles, statutory damages, attorneys' fees, costs, restitution, and injunctive and declaratory relief. Specifically, Plaintiffs seek: immediate installation of an effective safety override system that does not diminish the functionality of the Class Vehicles or replacement of the Defective Shifter altogether; provision of a temporary replacement vehicle while repair of the defect is pending, and/or buyback of the Class Vehicles; compensation for any additional sums spent on any repairs to the Defective Shifter and/or any "fix" performed on the Class Vehicles; restitution for purchase of extended warranties that will go unused; compensation for the increased loss in value and depreciation of the Class Vehicles due to widespread knowledge of the shifter defect, and punitive damages for FCA's knowing fraud that put drivers and members of the public nationwide at risk.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

29. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2). The matter in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, exceeds the sum or value of $5,000,000 and is a class action in which there are more than 100 members of the Classes, members of the Classes (as defined below) are citizens of states different from Defendant, and greater than two-thirds of the members of the Classes reside in states other than the state in which Defendant is a citizen. This Court has jurisdiction over supplemental state law claims pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1367 and jurisdiction over the Magnuson Moss Warranty Act claim by virtue of diversity jurisdiction being exercised under the Class Action Fairness Act (“CAFA”).

30. Venue properly lies in this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(a), (b) and (c) because Defendant maintains its principal place of business in this District, because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to Plaintiffs' claims occurred in this District, and because Defendant conducts a substantial amount of business in this District. Accordingly, Defendant has sufficient contacts with this District to subject Defendant to personal jurisdiction in the District and venue is proper.

III. PARTIES

A. Arizona Plaintiffs

Plaintiff Jeffrey Guy

31. Plaintiff Jeffrey Guy is a resident of Arizona domiciled in Mesa, Arizona. On January 31, 2015, Plaintiff Guy bought a new 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee at Larry Miller Jeep Chrysler in Avondale, Arizona. He purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with his review of Jeep's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Guy believed his Grand Cherokee would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety. Plaintiff Guy still owns his Jeep Grand Cherokee.

32. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Guy at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Guy of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle.

Plaintiff Casey E. Perkins

33. Plaintiff Casey E. Perkins is a resident of Arizona domiciled in Fort Mohave, Arizona. On October 8, 2014, Plaintiff Perkins bought a new 2014 Chrysler 300 at Swanty's Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram in Bullhead City, Arizona. He purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with his review of Chrysler's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Perkins believed his Chrysler 300 would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety. Plaintiff Perkins still owns his Chrysler 300.

34. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Perkins at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Perkins of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle. Given the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Perkins experienced at least three rollaway incidents in his Chrysler 300.

Plaintiff Wisam Yacoub

35. Plaintiff Wisam Yacoub is a resident of Arizona domiciled in San Tan Valley, Arizona. Plaintiff Yacoub owns a 2014 Chrysler 300, which he purchased new from Bill Luke Chrysler Jeep Dodge Ram in Phoenix, Arizona. He purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with his review of Chrysler's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Yacoub believed his Chrysler 300 would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety. Plaintiff Yacoub still owns his Chrysler 300.

36. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Yacoub at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Yacoub of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle. Given the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Yacoub experienced an incident in which his Chrysler 300 should have been in park, but instead rolled back and hit his son.

B. California Plaintiffs

Plaintiff David Goldsmith

37. Plaintiff David Goldsmith is a resident of California domiciled in Hanford, California. On August 15, 2015, Plaintiff Goldsmith purchased a new 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee at Clovis Chrysler Dodge Jeep RAM in Clovis, California. He purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility consistent with his review of Jeep's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Goldsmith believed his Grand Cherokee would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety. Plaintiff Goldsmith still owns his Jeep Grand Cherokee.

38. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Goldsmith at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Goldsmith of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle. Given the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Goldsmith experienced a rollaway incident in his Jeep Grand Cherokee.

Plaintiff Michael Vincent Nathan, Jr.

39. Plaintiff Michael Vincent Nathan, Jr is a resident of California domiciled in Acton, California. On or about September 10, 2013, Plaintiff Nathan bought a new 2014 Jeep Grand Cherokee at AutoNation Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram in Valencia, California. He purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with his review of Jeep's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Nathan believed his Grand Cherokee would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety.

40. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Nathan at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Nathan of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle. Given the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Nathan has experienced a rollaway incident in his Jeep Grand Cherokee and no longer feels safe driving the vehicle.

Plaintiff Pascual Pietri

41. Plaintiff Pascual Pietri is a resident of California domiciled in Los Angeles, California. On or about May 1, 2016, Plaintiff Pietri bought a new 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee at AutoNation Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram Valencia in Valencia, California. He purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with his review of Jeep's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Pietri believed his Grand Cherokee would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety. Plaintiff Pietri still owns his Jeep Grand Cherokee.

42. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Pietri at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Pietri of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle.

C. Colorado Plaintiffs

Plaintiff Debra Felker

43. Plaintiff Debra Felker is a resident of Colorado domiciled in Grand Junction, Colorado. On November 17, 2015, Plaintiff Felker purchased a new 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee at Grand Junction Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram in Grand Junction, Colorado. She purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with her review of Jeep's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Felker believed her Grand Cherokee would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety.

44. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Felker at the time of purchase, her vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016 and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Felker of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with her vehicle. Given the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Felker experienced five separate rollaway incidents in her Jeep Grand Cherokee. Two of these rollaway incidents occurred after previously having had the recall work performed. Because Plaintiff Felker no longer felt safe driving the vehicle, Plaintiff Felker had no choice but to trade it in.

Plaintiff Felker suffered a significant financial loss when she traded in the vehicle but Plaintiff Felker knew that the vehicle was too unsafe to continue driving.

D. Florida Plaintiffs

Plaintiff Justine Andollo

Neither

FCA, the dealership, nor any of its agents relayed any information about a recall involving the rollaway safety issue.

74. After Plaintiff Brooks independently learned of the recall, he called his dealership to inquire into the safety of his defective vehicle. The dealership informed Plaintiff Brooks that the recall on his specific vehicle had been fixed. Despite the dealership's representations, on July 11, 2016, Plaintiff Brooks attempted to place his vehicle in Park while at a gas station. Because of the Defective Shifter, the vehicle was not properly shifted into Park and began to rollaway, crossing four lanes of traffic and ultimately crashing into a fence pole. At the time of the accident, Plaintiff Brooks' Jeep Grand Cherokee was under a 10-year, 100,000 mile warranty from the dealership.

75. After this incident, Plaintiff Brooks double-checked his vehicle's VIN number and learned that his vehicle had not, in fact, been fixed; rather, the recall was simply "educational." Additionally, the dealership told Plaintiff Brooks that it did not have to inform him of the recall at the time of purchase.

76. As a result of the rollaway, Plaintiff Brooks' defective vehicle has been damaged, which will cause him to incur out of pocket costs to repair his defective vehicle. To date, his vehicle is not repaired.

77. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Brooks at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. 85. Plaintiff Lynd leased the vehicle because of its reputation for safety and reliability, consistent with his exposure to marketing materials for the vehicle. Plaintiff Lynd has a family and wanted a car that was safe to drive and did not present a risk of breaking down or getting in accidents. Prior to leasing the vehicle, Plaintiff Lynd test drove it and reviewed specific features and options available. Based on FCA's representations regarding the vehicle, Plaintiff Lynd believed that the vehicle was safe and reliable and, therefore, a good value. Plaintiff Lynd's lease has not expired.

86. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Lynd at the time of purchase, his vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on May 14, 2016 and subsequent recall letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Lynd of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with his vehicle. As a result of the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Lynd has experienced multiple instances where he was about to exit or had exited the vehicle, assuming the transmission had been placed in Park, only to discover that the transmission was actually in Drive or Reverse.

87. On or about June 20, 2016, Plaintiff Lynd learned that actor Anton Yelchin had been crushed to death by a rollaway 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee, apparently as a result of the same Defective Shifter. Shortly thereafter, Plaintiff Lynd contacted the FCA dealer from whom he had leased his vehicle to inquire as to the availability of a fix for the problem.

88. Upon contacting the dealer, Plaintiff Lynd was informed that FCA had provided dealers with a supposed fix for the safety issue presented by the Defective Shifter installed in Plaintiff Lynd's Jeep Grand Cherokee in the form of a software patch. Later that week, Plaintiff Lynd took his vehicle to the dealer, who installed the software patch provided by FCA.

89. The software patch has proven ineffective. On more than one occasion, Plaintiff Lynd has used the presumably fixed Defective Shifter to place the vehicle into Park, only to watch the transmission shift instead to a different gear.

90. After receiving the software patch and continuing to suffer safety risks due to the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Lynd notified the dealer that the software patch has not remedied all the safety issues caused by the Defective Shifter. The dealer informed Plaintiff Lynd that FCA did not offer any additional remedial measures to resolve the safety issues associated with the Defective Shifter.

91. Plaintiff Lynd no longer feels safe driving the vehicle and will not allow other members of his family to operate it.

As a result of the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Mack experienced a rollaway incident outside of her grandmother's resident. Upon placing her vehicle in Park, and as she was removing items from the vehicle, Plaintiff Mack's 2015 Grand Cherokee began to rollaway and ultimately collided with another vehicle.

94. Plaintiff Mack reported the rollaway incident to the dealership where she purchased her 2015 Grand Cherokee. Her vehicle was inspected and then later released to her. One week later, she received the recall notice in the mail.

95. As a result of the rollaway, Plaintiff Mack's Class Vehicle has been damaged, and she has incurred out of pocket costs related to the rollaway incident.

Given the Defective Shifter, Plaintiff Cruz experienced a rollaway incident after placing his vehicle in Park upon arriving home. BB. Wyoming Plaintiffs

Plaintiff Ann Magnuson

140. Plaintiff Ann Magnuson is a resident of Wyoming domiciled in Wilson, Wyoming. In or around June 3, 2015, she bought a new 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee at Castle Rock Jackson in Jackson, Wyoming. She purchased the car because of its reputation for safety and utility, consistent with her review of Jeep's advertising messaging regarding safety and reliability. Plaintiff Magnuson believed her Grand Cherokee would be a good value because of its utility and reputation for safety.

141. Unbeknownst to Plaintiff Magnuson at the time of purchase, her vehicle was equipped with the Defective Shifter, which fails to adequately alert drivers of the Class Vehicles' gear position, including when drivers exit the vehicle with the engine running. Until Defendant's recall on April 22, 2016, and subsequent letters sent to Class Vehicle owners and lessees, Defendant never warned Plaintiff Magnuson of the Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk associated with her vehicle. Given the defect, Plaintiff Magnuson's vehicle has rolled away on one occasion and Plaintiff no longer feels safe driving the vehicle. During the roll away, Plaintiff Magnusson had to jump, tuck and roll out of the vehicle as the vehicle careened into the street. While she was able to avoid injury, there was substantial damage to her vehicle.

142. None of the advertisements reviewed or representations received by Plaintiffs and members of the Classes contained any disclosure relating to the Defective Shifter and associated safety risk. Had Defendant disclosed that the Class Vehicles contained a Defective Shifter and corresponding safety risk, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes would have not purchased or leased their vehicles, or would have paid less for their vehicles.

143. When Plaintiffs and members of the Classes purchased or leased their Class Vehicles, they reasonably relied on the reasonable expectation that the Class Vehicles would be equipped with a gear shifting system that was free from defects and safe to operate. Had Defendant disclosed that the Defective Shifter in the Class Vehicles could lead to dangerous rollaway incidents, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes would have not purchased or leased their vehicles, or would have paid substantially less for their vehicles.

144. The Class Vehicles were operated in a reasonably foreseeable manner and as the vehicles were intended to be used. Plaintiffs and members of the Classes have suffered an ascertainable loss as a result of Defendant's unfair and deceptive conduct, breach of contractual, common law and statutory duties, and omissions and/or misrepresentations associated with the Defective Shifter and associated safety risk, including but not limited to, out-of-pocket losses and diminished value of their respective vehicles.

145. Neither Defendant nor any of its agents, dealers or other representatives informed Plaintiffs and members of the Classes of the Defective Shifter and associated safety risk prior to the purchase or lease of the Class Vehicles.

CC. Defendant

146. Defendant FCA is a Delaware limited liability company with its principal place of business at 1000 Chrysler Drive, Auburn Hills, Michigan. FCA is a member of the Fiat Chrysler Automobiles N.V. ("Fiat Chrysler") family of companies. Fiat Chrysler is a Dutch corporation with its headquarters in London, England. As of 2015, FCA is the seventh largest automaker in the world by unit production.

147. FCA designs, engineers, manufactures and sells vehicles under the Chrysler, Jeep, Dodge, Ram, Fiat and Maserati brands in this District and throughout the United States. FCA manufactures, distributes, and sells motor vehicles and parts through its network of authorized motor vehicle dealers. FCA engages in interstate commerce by selling vehicles through its authorized dealers located in every state of the United States, including within this District.

148. At all times relevant to this action, Defendant and/or its agents manufactured, distributed, sold, leased, and warranted the Class Vehicles throughout the United States. Defendant and/or its agents designed, manufactured, and/or installed the Defective Shifter in the Class Vehicles. Defendant and/or its agents also developed and disseminated the owner's manuals and warranty booklets, advertisements and other promotional materials relating to the Class Vehicles.

IV. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

A. Shift-by-Wire Transmission Systems

149. Shift-by-wire transmission systems, like the one installed in the Class Vehicles, manipulate gear changes without the use of a mechanical linkage between the gear shifting lever and the transmission; thus, saving materials and manufacturing costs, and saving valuable design space in the center console area where the mechanical link to the transmission would be installed.

150. Shift-by-wire transmissions use electronic signals and electronic control modules to manipulate transmission gear changes. Drivers engage control mechanisms such as levers and/or buttons that send electronic signals to manipulate the electronic control module, which shifts the transmission into the desired gear. Control mechanisms currently in use include: (1) a monostable electronic gear shift (“Monostable Shifter”); (2) a rotary electronic gear shift (“Rotary Shifter”); or (3) a polystable electronic gear shift (“Polystable Shifter”).

151. Monostable Shifters are characterized as “monostable” because their shifter levers always return to a single predetermined location after the desired gear is selected. Drivers push or pull a Monostable Shifter lever backward or forward one or more times and release the lever at their desired gear. The shift-by-wire system then relies on electronic signals and an electronic control module to shift the transmission into the selected gear. Monostable Shifter levers do not physically move and rest in separate physical positions, or “detents,” for Park, Reverse, Neutral and Drive (“PRND”) in order to change transmission gears.

152. Below is an image of Monostable Shifter in a 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee, a Class Vehicle:

153. Some shift-by-wire transmissions do not even use a shift lever. For example, the Rotary Shifter uses a rotary wheel to cycle through PRND and then sends the electronic signal that corresponds with the selected gear.²²

154. A Polystable Shifter incorporates the shift-by-wire electronic gear changes and the tactile feedback of a traditional mechanical gear shifter. The Polystable Shifter mimics the tactile feedback of a traditional mechanical gear shifter because it requires drivers to push or pull the shifter into predetermined physical slots for P, R, N or D. The benefit of a Polystable Shifter is that drivers receive the familiar tactile feedback associated with traditional mechanical gear shifters, thereby eliminating instances in which a driver thinks the vehicle is in P when it is actually in R, N or D.

155. Below is an image of Polystable Shifter that FCA began using in 2016 Jeep Grand Cherokees:

156. As the above image demonstrates, the Polystable Shifter slides back and forth and rests in predetermined physical slots for P, R, N or D.

B. The Defective Shifter

157. The Class Vehicles are equipped with the Defective Shifter, which was manufactured and supplied by ZF. Unlike a traditional gear shifter, and unlike a polystable electronic shifter, the Defective Shifter in the Class Vehicles does not have individual physical positions into which the gear shifter lever moves and rests for PRND. The Defective Shifter requires drivers to cycle through PRND by pressing a button on the shifter-lever knob and either pushing the shifter lever forward or pulling backward to cycle through PRND. After drivers push or pull the shifter lever to select their desired gear, the shifter lever returns to its predetermined central location.

158. Once drivers have selected their desired gear, the Defective Shifter uses illuminated PRND letters on the shifter-lever knob and illuminated PRND letters on the driver's informational display to indicate whether the vehicle is in Park, Reverse, Neutral or Drive. Thus, there is no physical gear level associated with Park, Reverse, Neutral or Drive as there is in a traditional automatic transmission shifter.

159. Among other things, the lack of a physical gear level for PRND and the Defective Shifter's return to its predetermined location has led to hundreds of reports of Class Vehicles rolling away when drivers thought their vehicles were in Park.

160. FCA has recognized that its Defective Shifter does not adequately convey gear position to drivers of Class Vehicles, stating: “[g]ear-selection is conveyed to the driver by multiple sets of indicator lights, not gear-selector position, and unless due care is taken, drivers may draw erroneous conclusions about the status of their vehicles.”²³

161. Unlike other automobile manufacturers, FCA did not implement a safety override feature that would prevent Class Vehicles from moving when the vehicles are not in Park and a driver opens the driver door and disengages pressure on the gas or brake pedals to exit the vehicle.

162. Unlike the Defective Shifter, traditional automatic gear shifter systems such as those found in most vehicles have grooves and separate physical resting places for PRND into which drivers can cause the shifter lever to rest. This type of gear shifting system gives drivers a visual cue as to the current gear the vehicle is in because the shifter lever physically rests on Park, Reverse, Neutral or Drive. Additionally, such systems use tactile feedback to alert drivers to the vehicle’s gear position because they require drivers to cause the shifter lever to rest on the desired gear position by either physically pushing or pulling the shifter lever to that position. Thus, traditional gear shifting systems provide more information to the driver by using both tactile and visual cues to inform drivers of their vehicle’s gear position.

²³ See Exhibit C (Recall Press Release).

C. The Defective Shifter Does Not Adequately Alert Drivers to the Class Vehicles' Gear Position

164. The Defective Shifter's use of solely visual cues to alert drivers to the Class Vehicles' gear position is ineffective because drivers may not realize that they have not pushed the gear lever forward or backward enough to engage their desired gear. The Defective Shifter's use of solely visual cues (without tactile feedback) to alert drivers to the Class Vehicles' gear position is especially problematic when drivers leave their car while the engine is running. Because there is no tactile feedback informing a driver whether the shifter lever has physically moved and is resting in P, R, N or D, drivers may think have pushed the shifter lever forward enough to engage the Park gear and may exit the vehicle when it is not actually in Park.

165. The Defective Shifter's sole reliance on visual feedback to convey gear selection has been dangerously ineffective. Indeed, consumer complaints beginning at least as early as 2013 reproduced verbatim below document Class Vehicle owners' and lessees' inability to determine whether their vehicle is in the desired gear resulting in hundreds of rollaways, accidents and injuries. Further, numerous complaints to NHTSA allege that once a driver puts a Class Vehicle into Park, the vehicle can move into another gear on its own.

166. In addition to the defective design of the Defective Shifter, FCA has failed to implement any safety override or fail-safe features that would cause the Class Vehicles to automatically shift into Park or engage the parking brake when the engine is running and the driver-side door is open and the driver is exiting the vehicle. The lack of a fail-safe feature is especially problematic because the engine stop button in the Class Vehicles is programmed to not function when drivers attempt to shut off the engine while the vehicle is not in Park. Class Vehicles are also programmed to shift into Neutral gear by default if drivers attempt to shift into Park while the vehicle is moving faster than 1.2 mph.

167. Safety override features are common in other car companies' vehicles that use a Monostable Shifter and, if FCA had employed a safety override, it may have prevented the collisions, injuries and death associated with the Defective Shifter. For example, Mercedes-Benz USA, LLC (“Mercedes-Benz”) sells vehicles with Monostable Shifters like those in the Class Vehicles; but, Mercedes-Benz vehicles include a safety feature that automatically shifts the gear to Park when the engine is running and the driver releases his foot off of the brake pedal and the driver-side door is opened. This safety override eliminates the potential for the dangerous vehicle rollaways associated with the Defective Shifter. Such a fail-safe feature likely could have prevented the approximately “212 crashes, 308 claims of property damage and 41 injuries” FCA identified from “700 field reports” related to the Defective Shifter.²⁴

168. NHTSA has reported that the Defective Shifter “appears to violate several basic design guidelines for vehicle controls, such as: 1) be consistent; 2) controls and displays should function the way people expect them to function; 3) minimize what the user has to remember; and 4) operations that occur most often or have the greatest impact on driving safety should be the easiest to perform.”²⁵

169. No reasonable consumer expects to purchase a vehicle with a Defective Shifter and associated safety risk that could expose her/him to collisions, vehicle rollaways and potential injury and death. Further, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes do not reasonably expect Defendant to omit or conceal a defect in the Class Vehicles or omit or conceal a known safety risk that puts drivers, passengers and the public at risk. Plaintiffs and members of the Classes had no reasonable way to know that Class Vehicles contained Defective Shifters which were defective in materials, workmanship, design and/or manufacture and posed a significant safety risk.

²⁴ Exhibit E (FCA Chronology).

170. As alleged herein, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes unknowingly purchased or leased vehicles that “violate several basic design guidelines” and suffered diminished market value and other damages related to their purchase or lease of the Class Vehicles as a direct result of Defendant’s material misrepresentations and omissions regarding the standard, quality or grade of the Class Vehicles and/or the existence of the Defective Shifter and safety risk. The fact that the Class Vehicles contain the Defective Shifter is material to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes because it diminishes the value of the Class Vehicles and presents a risk of injury and/or death to drivers and passengers of the Class Vehicles.

171. As a result of Defendant’s material misrepresentations and omissions, including its failure to disclose that the Class Vehicles incorporate the Defective Shifter, Defendant has caused Plaintiffs and members of the Classes to suffer actual damages, including but not limited to diminished value of their vehicles, and have recklessly placed Plaintiff and members of the Classes, the occupants of the Class Vehicles and the public at risk.

D. FCA Touted Safety in Its Marketing and Advertising

172. Maintaining that safety is purportedly one of the company's primary goals, specifically, FCA has touted its "commitment" and "dedication" to "transportation safety includ[ing] engineering active and passive features for diverse drivers and vehicle segments."²⁶ Amid worsening reliability ratings and recall investigations from NHTSA,²⁷ FCA's head of vehicle safety and regulatory compliance assured the market in 2014 that "safety considerations are baked into every component of every product we make."²⁸

This system can bring the vehicle to a full stop if need to remain below 35 miles per hour. Available.

ALWAYS ON GUARD

Accidents and road hazards rarely give you a heads-up before they strike. That's why the Dodge Charger packs more than 80 standard and available safety and security features to help keep drivers and passengers protected.

175. FCA touts the same safety messages for the Chrysler 300, stating “[t]he Chrysler 300 Offers Over 80 Standard and Available Safety and Security Features.”³⁶

FCA describes the Jeep Grand Cherokee as having “[o]ver 70 available safety and security features” and “protection when and where you need it.”³⁸ Its website conveys to consumers that the Jeep Grand Cherokee is “[a]t the forefront of the latest safety and security systems.”³⁹ Advertisements also claim that the vehicle is “[s]afe, secure, and in control.”⁴⁰

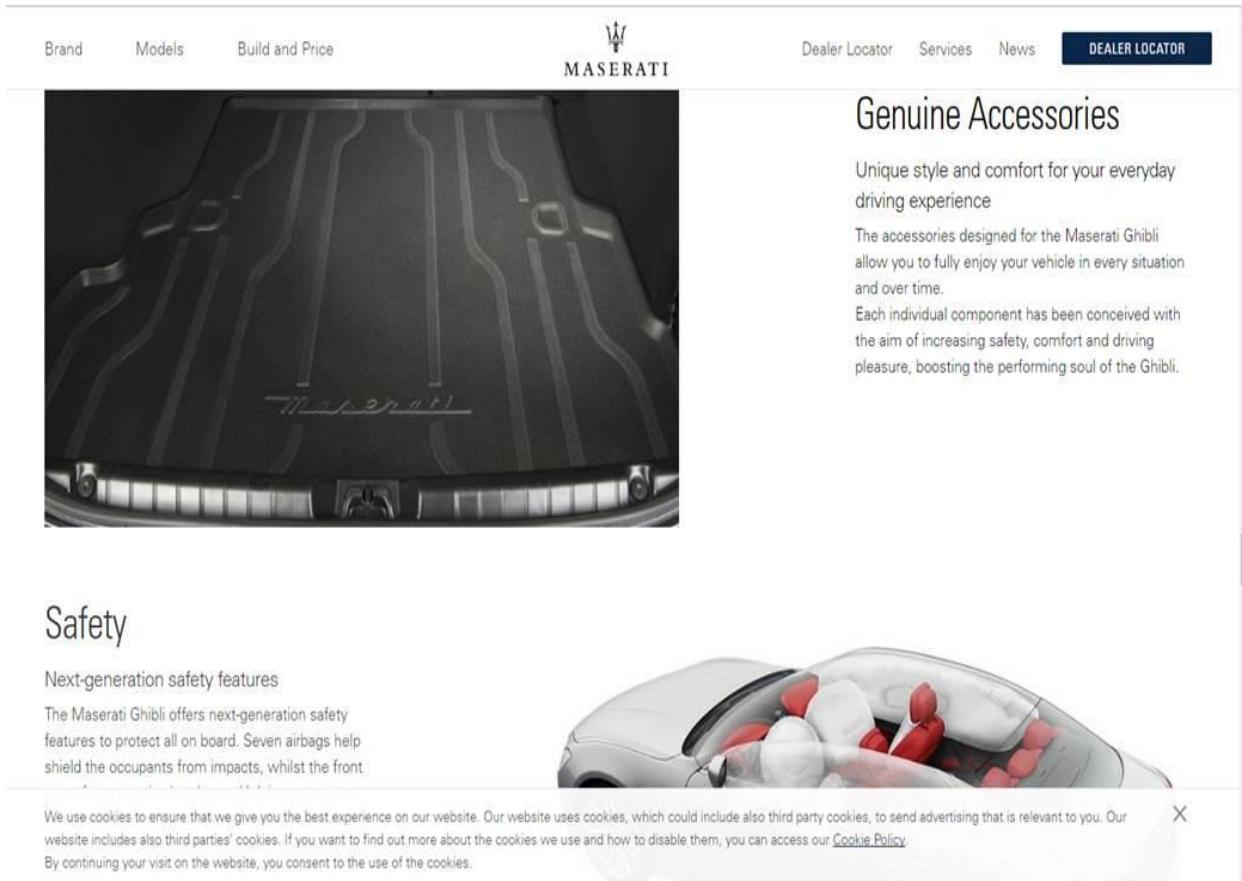

178. Similarly, FCA touted the “next generation safety features” in its Maserati vehicles. In particular, the Maserati website informs consumers that the Maserati Ghibli “offers next-generation safety features to protect all on board.”⁴¹

At the bottom left of the main content area, there is a section titled "Safety" with the sub-section "Next-generation safety features". 179. FCA made these repeated claims and advertisements touting its dedication to safety to boost Class Vehicle sales while knowing that it was selling hundreds of thousands of Class Vehicles equipped with the Defective Shifter, which had a known defect that violated basic design guidelines and an associated safety risk and which incorporated no safety override function to ensure Class Vehicles were in the proper gear and would not unexpectedly rollaway or shift into unintended gears.

E. FCA Knew About the Defective Shifter and Associated Safety Risks

180. Defendant fraudulently, intentionally, negligently and/or recklessly omitted and concealed from Plaintiffs and members of the Classes the defect in the Class Vehicles even though Defendant knew or should have known of design and manufacturing defects in Class Vehicles and that the vehicles' design violated basic guidelines.

181. Knowledge and information regarding the Defective Shifter were in the exclusive and superior possession of Defendant and its dealers, and that information was not provided to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes. Based on pre-production testing, pre-production design failure mode analysis, production design failure mode analysis, early consumer complaints made to Defendant's network of exclusive dealers and NHTSA, basic design guidelines, and testing performed in response to consumer complaints, inter alia, Defendant was aware (or should have been aware) of the defect in the Defective Shifter and fraudulently concealed the defect and safety risk from Plaintiffs and members of the Classes.

182. Defendant knew, or should have known, that the defect in the Defective Shifter and associated safety risk were material to owners and lessees of the Class Vehicles and were not known or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs and members of the Classes before they purchased or leased Class Vehicles.

183. Notwithstanding Defendant's exclusive and superior knowledge of the Defective Shifter, Defendant failed to disclose the defect to consumers at the time of purchase or lease of the Class Vehicles (or any time thereafter) and continued to sell Class Vehicles containing the defect through the 2015 model year. Until April 2016, Defendant intentionally concealed that the Defective Shifter violated basic design guidelines and presents a safety risk to consumers, including Plaintiffs and members of the Classes, and the public.

1. NHTSA Complaints

184. Soon after Class Vehicles entered the market in early 2011, FCA became aware of the design defect associated with the Defective Shifter that potentially leads to dangerous rollaway incidents. According to NHTSA-ODI, "FCA received negative consumer feedback for the Monostable shifters shortly after the subject vehicles [Class Vehicles] entered the market."⁴² Further, "[f]ield data indicate that the design resulted in higher error rates during attempted shifts to Park and higher rates of powered rollaway incidents."⁴³

185. Consumers who purchased or leased Class Vehicles have filed hundreds of complaints with NHTSA reporting dangerous rollaway incidents, collisions and injuries and detailing the defect in the Class Vehicles equipped with the Defective Shifter.

186. Federal law requires FCA to monitor defects which can cause a safety issue and report them within five (5) days. FCA regularly monitors NHTSA complaints in order to meet its reporting requirements under federal law and was provided knowledge of the Defective Shifter through these complaints, inter alia.

187. Below is a sample of consumer complaints made to NHTSA regarding Class Vehicle rollaway incidents and/or incidents where Class Vehicles did not remain in the desired gear:

I FEEL THE GEAR SELECTOR ON MY 2014 CHRYSLER 300 IS VAGUE, CONFUSING, AND DANGEROUS. IT IS ELECTRONIC AND PIVOTS INSTEAD OF MOVING ONE SPOT FOR EACH GEAR SELECTION. IF YOU PARK AND ATTEMPT TO SHIFT FROM DRIVE TO PARK SOMETIMES IT MAKES IT AND SOMETIMES IT ENDS UP IN REVERSE. WHEN THIS

HAPPENS THE ENGINE DOES NOT TURN OFF WHEN YOU PUSH THE STOP BUTTON AND AS YOU STEP OUT THE CAR TAKES OFF BACKWARDS. ALSO WHEN SHIFTING FROM PARK TO DRIVE SOMETIMES IT GOES PAST DRIVE AND INTO LOW, SO I ENDED UP DRIVING FOR A TIME STUCK IN LOW GEAR AND NOT KNOWING UNTIL YOU GO TO SLOW OR STOP AND IT FEELS LIKE THE BRAKES ARE STUCK ON SO YOU START LOOKING FOR THE REASON. I HAVE HATED THIS CAR ALMOST SINCE I LEASED IT IN DECEMBER OF 2014. I FEEL WITH THE LACK OF A SWITCH KEY TO TURN THE ENGINE ON AND OFF, AND THIS VAGUE GEAR SELECTOR THIS GROUP OF VEHICLES IS AN ACCIDENT WAITING TO HAPPEN. I HAVE TRIED TO TRADE IT IN BUT I STILL HAVE 13 MONTHS LEFT AND CAN DO NOTHING. PLEASE LOOK INTO THIS...THANK YOU *TR

ON FEBRUARY 7, 2016, MY HUSBAND PARKED HIS 2014 CHRYSLER 300 IN A PARKING SPOT IN A PARKING LOT AND EXITED THE VEHICLE WITH THE ENGINE RUNNING. I WAS SEATED IN THE FRONT PASSENGER SEAT WITH OUR 11 YEAR-OLD CHILD BEHIND ME AND 9 YEAR-OLD CHILD SEATED BEHIND THE DRIVER'S SEAT. ALL 3 OF US WERE WEARING SEAT BELTS. MY HUSBAND WALKED ACROSS THE PARKING LOT AND DOWN THE BLOCK. I WAS TEXTING SOMEONE ON MY CELLPHONE WHEN MY 11 YEAR-OLD EXCLAIMED THAT THE CAR WAS MOVING. WITHOUT LOOKING UP FROM MY PHONE, I EXPLAINED TO HER THAT IT WAS PROBABLY THE ILLUSION OF A CAR PULLING INTO OR OUT OF THE PARKING SPOT BESIDE US. SHE SCREAMED, "NO THE CAR IS DEFINITELY MOVING!" THE CAR WAS ACCELERATING BACKWARDS. I MADE EVERY EFFORT TO MOVE THE GEARSHIFT, GRAB THE STEERING WHEEL AND HIT THE BRAKES BUT DUE TO THE SIZE OF THE LARGE CONSOLE I COULD NOT SWING MY LEG OVER TO REACH THE BRAKE. THE CAR MOVED IN REVERSE ACROSS THE PARKING LOT AND STRUCK AN UNOCCUPIED VEHICLE THAT WAS PARKED ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE LOT. THANKFULLY, THE CAR DID NOT STRIKE ANY PEDESTRIANS OR OCCUPIED VEHICLES, AS THIS WAS A BUSY PARKING LOT. OUR CHRYSLER ENDURED SIGNIFICANT DAMAGE WHILE THE DAMAGE TO THE OTHER VEHICLE WAS MINOR. MY CHILDREN AND I WERE EXTREMELY UPSET. WE ARE VERY GRATEFUL THAT NO ONE WAS PHYSICALLY INJURED BUT WE WERE ALL QUITE SHAKEN BY THE OUT OF CONTROL CAR. THE IMPACT WAS SUCH THAT IT MAKE A LOUD "THUD" SOUND WHEN IT COLLIDED WITH THE OTHER VEHICLE AND JOLTED US A BIT. WE WERE COMPLETELY SHOCKED THAT THE CAR SEEMINGLY ON IT'S OWN WENT FROM "PARK" INTO "REVERSE". MY HUSBAND HAD TIME TO WALK ACROSS THE PARKING LOT AND DOWN THE BLOCK BEFORE THE VEHICLE STARTED TO MOVE. THE VEHICLE WAS LONG OUT OF HIS SIGHT BEFORE IT STARTED TO MOVE. THIS CAR IS DANGEROUSLY DEFECTIVE. WE REPORTED THIS INCIDENT TO OUR INSURANCE CARRIER THE NEXT DAY.

HAVE A LONG NARROW DRIVEWAY WITH A BIT OF A SLOPE TOWARD THE HOUSE. WHEN GOING OUT THE DRIVEWAY I SEEN A TRASH CONTAINER TIPPED OVER. I PUT THE VEHICLE IN PARK, LETTING IT IDLE, WHILE I EXITED THE VEHICLE TO REMOVE THE CONTAINER. LOOKING BACK I SEEN THE JEEP BACKING DOWN THE DRIVEWAY TOWARD THE HOUSE UNDER IT'S OWN POWER. I TRIED CATCH IT,BUT IT HIT THE SIDE OF THE HOME ON A GARAGE WALL. TOTAL DAMAGE TO THE VEHICLE IS AROUND $9400 I'VE YET TO GET THE HOUSE DAMAGE ESTIMATE BACK. I DIDN'T SEE IF THE VEHICLE WAS IN PARK OR REVERSE WHEN I EXITED. I PUSHED THE SHIFTER CLEAR FORWARD TILL IT STOPPED, THEN EXITED. THE SHIFTER HAS TO GO THRU REVERSE BEFORE IT GETS TO PARK. IN THE PAST I'VE NOTICED THAT IT DID NOT ALWAYS GO INTO PARK WHEN I HAD PUT IT THERE. I DRIVE LIKE NORMAL PEOPLE DRIVE. I HAVE 55+ YEARS OF DRIVING EXPERIENCE. WE SHIFT BY FEEL AND NOT ALWAYS LOOKING DOWN AT THE SHIFTER. WHEN A SHIFT LEVER GOES THRU THE MOTION FORWARD AND STOPS, WE EXPECT IT TO BE IN PARK, NOT REVERSE. THIS IS A MAJOR FLAW IN THE VEHICLE. I LOVE THE NEW 8 SPEED TRANSMISSION, BUT DON'T TRUST THE SHIFTING MECHANISM. MY WIFE IS VERY RELUCTANT TO DRIVE IT BECAUSE OF THIS ISSUE. I'VE CONTACTED CHRYSLER ABOUT THE ISSUE. THEY SEEM CONCERNED AND ARE WANTING TO LOOK AT THE VEHICLE WHEN REPAIRED. HOWEVER, I'M NOT CERTAIN, HEARING ABOUT OTHER ISSUES WITH VEHICLES, WHETHER THEY ARE JUST TRYING TO BLOW SMOKE UNTIL I QUITE DOWN. I DID OBTAIN A LEG INJURY WHEN ATTEMPTING TO STOP THE VEHICLE. NOT SERIOUS, BUT SURELY COULD HAVE BEEN. HAD THERE BEEN A CHILD, PET OR OTHER PERSON BEHIND THE VEHICLE, IT COULD HAVE BEEN DISASTROUS. THERE NEEDS TO BE A FIX TO THIS PROBLEM. I HAVE A FAMILY MEMBER THAT WORKS FOR STATE FARM INSURANCE. THEY'VE ALSO HAD SIMILAR COMPLAINTS. THERE'S NOT DETENT IN THE SHIFTING, IT JUST GOES FORWARD AND STOPS. ALL ELECTRONIC, NOT MECHANICAL AS THEY USED TO BE.

ON 3 SEPARATE OCCASIONS IN THE LAST TWO WEEKS MY 2014 JEEP GRAND CHEROKEE HAS ROLLED UNEXPECTEDLY ONCE THE TRANSMISSION HAS BEEN PUT INTO PARK AND THE ENGINE TURNED OFF. THE FIRST TIME IT HAPPENED, I DROVE INTO A SLOPED DRIVEWAY. I PUT THE CAR INTO PARK, TURNED OFF THE CAR, AND SAT IN THE DRIVER'S SEAT TO COMPOSE AN E-MAIL. MY FOOT CONTINUED TO BE ON THE BRAKE. A MINUTE OR SO LATER, WHEN I COMPLETED MY TASK, I OPENED THE DOOR AND BEGAN TO GET OUT, HAVING NOT PUT ON THE EMERGENCY BRAKE. AS IT WAS A GENTLE SLOPE, I DID NOT NOTICE THE CAR BEGINNING TO ROLL IMMEDIATELY, BUT ONCE OUTSIDE THE CAR I REALIZED IT WAS ROLLING BACKWARDS. I TURNED AND GOT BACK INTO THE CAR AND APPLIED THE EMERGENCY BRAKE, ALMOST FALLING IN THE PROCESS. AT THE TIME I THOUGHT THAT I MIGHT HAVE PUT THE CAR INTO NEUTRAL RATHER THAN PARK, AS THE GEAR SHIFT IS ELECTRONIC, AND IS SLIGHTLY DIFFERENT IN FEEL FROM OLDER TRANSMISSIONS. BELIEVING THAT IT WAS MY ERROR, I DID NOTHING ABOUT THIS. THEN, OVER THIS PAST WEEKEND IT HAPPENED AGAIN, AND I WROTE TO JEEP VIA THEIR OWNER PORTAL, TO ENSURE THAT IT WAS REPORTED. ON DECEMBER 3RD, I

SCHEDULED A SERVICE FOR FRIDAY DECEMBER 5TH. YESTERDAY, DECEMBER 4TH, I TOOK THE CAR TO A CAR WASH. THE ATTENDANT WAS DOING DETAIL WORK, AND AFTER TAKING IT THROUGH THE WASH, HE PARKED IT. I WALKED TOWARD THE CAR, AND HE GOT OUT OF THE CAR ONCE HE HAD PUT IT INTO PARK AND TURNED IT OFF. HE EXITED JUST AS I GOT TO THE FRONT DRIVER'S SIDE CORNER. THE CAR BEGAN TO ROLL AGAIN, AND WAS ON A SLOPE. HAD THE ATTENDANT NOT JUMPED BACK INTO THE CAR AND APPLIED THE BRAKE, BOTH OF US WOULD HAVE BEEN PINNED IN PLACE, ME BETWEEN THE DOOR AND A LARGE CEMENT PLANTER, AND HE BETWEEN THE DOOR AND THE INTERIOR. I QUICKLY VIDEOTAPED THE ATTENDANT BRIEFLY RECOUNTING THE STORY, AND OBTAINED HIS CONTACT INFORMATION, AS WELL. THE JEEP IS NOW AT THE DEALERSHIP. *TR

F. FCA Stopped Installing the Defective Shifter in its Vehicles

188. Beginning in or before 2014, FCA stopped installing the Defective Shifter in its vehicles and began equipping its 2015 Dodge Charger and 2015 Chrysler 300 with a Polystable Shifter. But it kept the Defective Shifter in the Jeep Grand Cherokee until the 2016 model year. According to FCA, in order “[t]o address customer-satisfaction issues, [FCA] began equipping the [Dodge] Charger and [Chrysler] 300 with a new shift-lever design in model-year 2015” and the “[Jeep] Grand Cherokee’s shift-lever was updated in model-year 2016.”⁴⁴

189. NHTSA has found that Polystable Shifters reduce the safety risks associated with the Defective Shifter, stating that “Polystable gearshift assemblies stay in the position of the selected gear, similar to a standard mechanical shifter, providing drivers with the expected tactile and visual feedback (i.e., works as expected and does not require additional thought or attention).”⁴⁵

⁴⁴ Exhibit C (Recall Press Release).

G. NHTSA Confirms a Design Defect in the Defective Shifter

190. Between August 2015 and February 2016, NHTSA investigated the Defective Shifter, and informed FCA that “it is concerned that the design of the shifters is confusing for drivers.”⁴⁶

191. On August 20, 2015, NHTSA-ODI opened Preliminary Evaluation PE15-030, to investigate fourteen reports of rollaways in 2014 and 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee vehicles.⁴⁷ In November 2015, FCA responded to 10 pages of detailed questions from NHTSA, but that response has not been made publically available on the agency’s website.⁴⁸

192. On February 3, 2016, NHTSA released an update regarding Preliminary Evaluation PE15-030 and announced that an Engineering Analysis had been opened regarding rollaway incidents involving the Class Vehicles.⁴⁹

⁴⁹ See Exhibit A (NHTSA-ODI Resume 1).

Initially, NHTSA reported 121 accidents and 30 injuries as a result of the Defective Shifter.⁵⁰

193. NHTSA described the defect as follows:

The MY 2014-2015 Grand Cherokee vehicles are equipped with Monostable electronic (“E-shift”) gearshift assemblies supplied by ZF Group (ZF). The E-shift system operates electronically and the gear requested by the driver is transmitted from the shifter via the CAN Bus to the Transmission Control Module which makes the requested shift. The Monostable gearshift does not move into a detent but springs back to a centered/neutral position after the driver selects a gear and releases the shifter. A button on the shift knob must be depressed to shift out of Park, shift out of Neutral, and to shift from Drive to Reverse or Park.

The gear selected is shown on a display in the dash and illuminated letters on the shifter. If the driver’s door is opened when the gearshift is not in Park, a chime sounds and a message is displayed on the EVIC to warn the driver. In addition, the engine Start/Stop push-button control logic does not permit normal engine shut-off when the transmission is not in Park. This logic may provide feedback to drivers who attempt to turn the engine off when the transmission is not in Park. However, this function does not protect drivers who intentionally leave the engine running or drivers who do not recognize that the engine continues to run after an attempted shut-off.⁵¹

194. In February 2016, NHTSA confirmed that the Defective Shifter is poorly designed, stating that its testing “indicates that operation of the

⁵¹ Id. (emphasis added).

Monostable shifter is not intuitive and provides poor tactile and visual feedback to the driver, increasing the potential for unintended gear selection.”⁵²

195. Through ODI’s investigation, NHTSA “identified 306 incidents of vehicle rollaway following intended shifts to Park in the 2014-2015 Grand Cherokee.”⁵³ The ODI’s analysis of these incidents determined that the incidents resulted in 117 alleged crashes and caused the following injuries:

Twenty-eight of the crashes reportedly caused injuries, including 3 with a fractured pelvis and 4 others requiring some degree of hospitalization (a ruptured bladder, fractured kneecap, broken ribs, damaged to right leg). Other injuries include reports of a broken nose, facial lacerations requiring stitches, sprained knees, severe bruising, and trauma to legs.⁵⁴

196. NHTSA also confirmed that, in addition to model-year 2014 to 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokees, model-year 2012 to 2014 Chrysler 300 and Dodge Charger vehicles with 3.6L engines are equipped with the Defective Shifter.⁵⁵

197. On April 22, 2016, FCA submitted a Defect Information Report, informing NHTSA that “[t]he existing strategies built into these vehicles to deter drivers from exiting the vehicle after failing to put the transmission into PARK have not stopped some from doing so.”⁵⁶ FCA admitted that “[d]rivers erroneously concluding that their vehicle's transmission is in the PARK position may be struck by the vehicle and injured if they attempt to get out of the vehicle while the engine is running and the parking brake is not engaged.”⁵⁷

198. NHTSA continued to investigate the Defective Shifter and perform its Engineering Analysis through June 24, 2016. As a result of this analysis, NHTSA found the Defective Shifter “appears to violate several basic design guidelines for vehicle controls, such as: 1) be consistent; 2) controls and displays should function the way people expect them to function; 3) minimize what the user has to remember; and 4) operations that occur most often or have the greatest impact on driving safety should be the easiest to perform.”⁵⁸

199. NHTSA concluded that the “[a]udible chimes” and “visual warning[s]” provided to alert drivers that the vehicle is not in Park when the engine is running and the driver’s door is opened are ineffective.⁵⁹ NHTSA stated:

Based on ODI’s interviews with complainants, in some incidents the driver believed they had left the vehicle idling in Park when they exited, but the vehicle was not in Park. In other incidents the drivers believed they had turned the engine Off after shifting to Park, but failed to recognize that the engine did not shutoff and the vehicle was not in Park. The engine noise at idle is not obvious to many drivers who may not recognize that the engine continues to run after attempted shutoff.⁶⁰

⁵⁷ Id. (emphasis added).

200. Lastly, NHTSA identified one fatal crash potentially related to one of the Class Vehicles, a 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee, stating:

In addition to the crashes and injuries documented in this closing resume, ODI is aware of a fatal incident involving a recalled 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee that occurred over the weekend of June 18-19, 2016 in Studio City, California that may be related to the alleged defect. The incident is being investigated by the Los Angeles Police Department and FCA.⁶¹

H. Despite NHTSA's Findings and FCA's Voluntary Recall, FCA Blames Drivers and Fails to Provide a Remedy within a Reasonable Time

201. Although FCA has long known about the Defective Shifter, the Company failed to provide a remedy or replace the Defective Shifter within a reasonable time, and did not inform Plaintiffs and members of the Classes that a purported remedy was available until after the highly-publicized death of Mr. Yelchin in June 2016. Rather, the first recall notice letter sent to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes in May 2016 informed them that they would be notified once FCA developed a remedy for the Defective Shifter. Even after the June 2016 recall was issued, FCA did not have an immediate fix for all of the affected vehicles, and thousands of Class Vehicles have yet to be effectively repaired.

1. The Class Vehicles Are Recalled

202. On April 22, 2016, FCA announced a voluntary recall of more than 1.1 million Class Vehicles worldwide, including an estimated 811,586 Class Vehicles sold or leased in the United States. In connection with the recall, FCA issued a press release, stating that “[a]n investigation by FCA US and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration found some drivers have exited their vehicles without first selecting ‘PARK.’”⁶² The Recall Press Release categorized such behavior as a “safety risk” in light of the failure of the Defective Shifter’s warning chimes and alert messages inability to deter “some drivers from exiting their vehicles without selecting ‘PARK.’”⁶³

203. Thus, FCA announced that it “will enhance the warnings and transmission-shift strategy” on Class Vehicles.⁶⁴ Specifically, “enhancements will combine warnings with a transmission-shift strategy to automatically prevent a vehicle from moving, under certain circumstances, even if the driver fails to select ‘PARK.’”⁶⁵ The Recall Press Release failed to include a timeline for the ⁶² Exhibit C (Recall Press Release).

“enhancements,” vaguely stating that “[a]ffected customers will be notified when service becomes available.”⁶⁶

204. At the time of FCA’s Recall Press Release, NHTSA stated that its “investigation of the shifter in these vehicles showed it is clearly a safety issue that has led to hundreds of crashes and dozens of injuries.”⁶⁷

205. On or around May 14, 2016, FCA sent Class Vehicle owners and lessees a recall letter, informing them of the Defective Shifter and associated safety risks, including the potential for dangerous rollaways.⁶⁸ The Recall Letter was bare on specifics as to FCA’s planned remedy and when lessees and owners of Class Vehicles could expect their vehicles to be repaired. Specifically, the Recall Letter stated that “a permanent remedy is . . . currently under development” and “FCA is working to finalize a remedy by the 4th quarter of 2016.”⁶⁹ Furthermore, the Recall Letter informed owners and lessees that FCA would contact them again by mail “with a follow-up recall notice, when the remedy is available.”⁷⁰

⁶⁸ See Exhibit D (May 2016 FCA Recall Letter).

⁷⁰ Id. (emphasis in original).

206. Notably, FCA limited the scope of its recall to address only the risk of rollaway incidents when a driver exits a vehicle, and did not expand the recall to address the general safety issue posed by the Defective Shifter in that a driver cannot rely on the Defective Shifter to effectively switch to the desired gear and/or the driver does not know which gear the Defective Shifter is in.

207. In June 2016, Maserati North America, Inc. (“Maserati”), a subsidiary of Fiat Chrysler, admitted that the Maserati Class Vehicles contain a defect and issued a recall of 2014 Maserati Quattroportes and Ghiblis. In its Defect Information Report, Maserati stated that the Maserati Class Vehicles are:

manufactured with a transmission gear shift lever which may be counter intuitive and may mislead drivers in believing their vehicle is in the Park position when actually the vehicle’s transmission is in a drive gear. *If the vehicle operator attempts to exit the vehicle, while believing the vehicle is in Park (when the vehicle is actually in a drive gear), serious injury can result.*⁷¹

208. Maserati sent a recall letter to owners and lessees of Maserati Class Vehicles stating the following regarding a potential remedy for the Defective Shifter: “[t]he proposed remedy is a possible software re-flash, however this solution must be verified and validated, and is currently under investigation, and in any event, will be performed free of charge to the vehicle owner.” Id. The company further informed consumers that “Maserati anticipates having the

2. FCA Failed to Provide a Remedy Within a Reasonable Time

209. According to NHTSA, “FCA’s recall remedy involves the development of revised control logic to provide ‘Auto Park’ shift strategies.”⁷³ Specifically, NHTSA detailed three scenarios in which the Defective Shifter leads to accidents or injuries and the countermeasures proposed by FCA to remedy each issue related to the defect:

- Scenario 1: “Driver believes they put the vehicle in Park and attempts to shutoff the vehicle using the ignition On/Off button, and then exits the vehicle without realizing that the vehicle is not in Park and the engine continues to run.”⁷⁴ In response to Scenario 1, FCA developed the following countermeasure: “Automatically shift to Park and shut the engine off when the vehicle speed is 1.2 mph or less and the ignition On/Off button is pressed.”⁷⁵

⁷³ Exhibit B (NHTSA-ODI Resume 2).

⁷⁵ Id.

- Scenario 2: “Driver believes the vehicle is in Park, intentionally leaves the vehicle running and attempts to exit the vehicle.”⁷⁶ In response to Scenario 2, FCA developed the following countermeasure: “Automatically shift to Park if the transmission is not in Park, the vehicle speed is 1.2 mph or less, the driver’s seat belt is unbuckled, the driver’s door is ajar and the brake pedal is not depressed.”⁷⁷
- Scenario 3: “Driver attempts to shift into Park when the vehicle is moving, but the vehicle speed is too high to engage Park. The vehicle may default to Neutral in this situation. The EVIC displays a message ‘Vehicle Speed is too high to shift.’”⁷⁸ In response to Scenario 3, FCA developed the following countermeasure: “Automatically shift to Park if vehicle speed drops to 1.2 mph or less within 5 seconds of the attempted shift to Park.”⁷⁹

210. However, it was not until June 24, 2016, that FCA issued a follow-up recall notice to owners and lessees of certain models of Jeep Grand Cherokees explaining that the Company had developed a purported remedy for the Defective Shifter.⁸⁰ According to FCA, the remedy would involve taking the vehicle to an

⁷⁹ Id.

FCA dealer, who would “install new software to include an ‘Auto Park’ feature which eliminates the possibility of the driver inadvertently failing to place the transmission into ‘PARK’ prior to exiting the vehicle.”⁸¹ The letter also stated that the dealer would provide additional information and guidance regarding the new feature, stating:

You will receive an “Auto Park” addendum card explaining the vehicle’s new “Auto Park” feature. After your vehicle receives the software update, please review the addendum card with all of the drivers of your vehicle and then store the addendum card in the owner’s manual for future reference. Your dealer will also review/demonstrate this new “Auto Park” feature and answer any questions or concerns.⁸²

3. FCA Wrongly Blamed Drivers for Rollaway Incidents While it Delayed its Response

211. Despite NHTSA’s findings that the Defective Shifter contained a defect, violates basic design guidelines, and does not adequately inform drivers of the Class Vehicles’ gear positions, from first receiving customer complaints and accident reports in 2014 throughout much of 2016, FCA continued to maintain that the accidents associated with the Defective Shifter were the fault of drivers. In its Recall Press Release, FCA dismissed allegations of a defect, stating “[t]he vehicles involved in these events were inspected and no evidence of equipment failure was found.”⁸³ The automaker explained its decision to recall the vehicles was “to reduce the effect of potential driver error by enhancing warnings and transmission shift strategy” and “address customer-satisfaction issues.”⁸⁴

212. FCA further concealed the design defect in its press release by blaming drivers of Class Vehicles for the incidents. The Company emphasized, “unless due care is taken, drivers may draw erroneous conclusions about the status of their vehicles. The vehicles also deliver warning chimes and alert messages if their driver-side doors are opened while their engines are still running and ‘PARK’ is not engaged. However, investigation suggested these measures may be insufficient to deter some drivers from exiting their vehicles without selecting ‘PARK.’”⁸⁵

213. The manufacturer of the Defective Shifter, ZF, maintained that it is not responsible for the defect, instead placing responsibility squarely on FCA for its integration of the ZF shifter into its cars without a safety override, stating:

ZF supplies gearshift systems to automotive manufacturers according to their technical and design specifications. The manufacturer designs the integration of the gearshift system into the vehicle operating concept and develops the respective safeguard mechanisms. ZF delivered a fully functional state-of-the-art product, which was integrated into the vehicle architecture by [FCA].⁸⁶

⁸³ Exhibit C (Recall Press Release).

214. Consumer safety and advocacy groups noted FCA's continued refusal to accept responsibility for the Defective Shifter and continued attempts to blame Class Vehicle drivers for the safety risk associated with the Defective Shifter. Safety Research & Strategies, a consumer watchdog group, said Defendant has placed blame on drivers, and “[w]hat FCA doesn't acknowledge is their design defect that changes the way a traditional shift lever works and provides inadequate feedback to drivers.”⁸⁷

215. FCA's foot-dragging with respect to notifying its customers of the dangerous Defective Shifter, and taking steps to correct it, is unfortunately business as usual for FCA. As reported by The New York Times on June 21, 2016, Center for Auto Safety Executive Director Clarence Ditlow believes FCA's investigation and recall have taken too long, noting “[t]here was no sense of urgency on Chrysler's part or N.H.T.S.A.'s part given the potential for death or injury.”⁸⁸

216. This is not the first time Defendant has been criticized for dragging its feet with regard to vehicle safety recalls. NHTSA has “publicly chastised [FCA], which acknowledged delaying recalls in almost two dozen cases going back to 2013 and affecting millions of vehicles.”⁸⁹ NHTSA head, Mark Rosekind, had voiced the agency’s “concerns about slow completion rates, slow or inadequate notifications to consumer, faulty remedies, improper actions by dealers any more”⁹⁰ related to 20 separate recalls that affected 10 million vehicles. Mr. Rosekind further stated that FCA’s conduct at that time “represent[ed] a significant failure to meet a manufacturer’s safety responsibilities.”⁹¹ In response, FCA promised to speed up its recalls and agreed to pay penalties of as much as $105 million. As described by FCA, “[i]n 2015, FCA US continued to focus efforts on refining recall processes and procedures and entered into a consent order with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to undertake specific actions to improve its recall execution.”⁹² Mr. Ditlow stated that the consent order was “totally aimed at making Chrysler do a better job on recalls in the future.”⁹³

217. But this case evidences the fact that little has changed. FCA is still putting profits ahead of safety. Defendant has known of the safety risks associated with the Defective Shifter since shortly after the Class Vehicles entered the market and at least since August 2015 when NHTSA opened its investigation. As framed by The New York Times, “[t]he question is why, nearly a year later, Fiat Chrysler has still not come up with a fix for the problem, which has now been linked to hundreds of accidents, dozens of injuries and now—potentially—a well-publicized death.”⁹⁴

218. Indeed, on December 16, 2016, NHTSA announced a related investigation into rollaways associated with additional FCA vehicles, including model year 2013-2016 Dodge Ram 1500s and model year 2014-2016 Dodge Durangos with an electronically shifted transmission and electronic rotary control for driver gear selections.⁹⁵ NHTSA’s ODI described the issue as identical to the issue with the Class Vehicles, stating that “[c]ustomers report incidents of vehicle roll-way after the operator allegedly shifted the transmission to Park and exited the vehicle.”⁹⁶ NHTSA estimates that 1,000,000 additional vehicles are affected by the most recent investigation.⁹⁷

219. ODI summarized the most recent FCA investigation, PE 16-014, as follows:

The Office of Defects Investigation (ODI) has identified 43 complaints alleging vehicle roll-away from a parked position in model year (MY) 2013-2016 Ram 1500 and MY 2014-2016 Dodge Durango. These subject vehicles are equipped with an electronically shifted transmission and electronic rotary control for driver gear selections. The reports alleged that the unintended motion occurred after the driver moved the transmission gear selector to Park and exited the vehicle. Nine injuries have been alleged in eight reports, 25 crashes are alleged. Thirty-four of the reports alleged that the vehicle was moving while the shifter indicated that it was in the park position. Many of the incidents alleged the engine was running, however it was noted as off in a few cases.⁹⁸

I. FCA Finally Provides a Purported Remedy for Certain Class Vehicles: One that is Ineffective and Diminishes the Functionality of the Class Vehicles.

220. After its prolonged and unreasonable delay, FCA responded to the Defective Shifter maelstrom by providing a purported remedy that: (1) is ineffective and/or causes rollaways of Class Vehicles; (2) leads to other mechanical failures in the Class Vehicles; and/or (3) diminishes the functionality of the Class Vehicles.

1. FCA's Purported Remedy Is Ineffective

221. Numerous Class members have reported that they never received a recall notice from FCA, and have yet to be contacted by the Company or offered the purported remedy for the Defective Shifter in their Class Vehicles.

222. Moreover, many of those who have had their Class Vehicle repaired by FCA report that the repair was ineffective such that the vehicles continue to experience rollaway incidents (or experienced a rollaway for the first time after the repair) or incidents where their vehicle is not in the intended gear.

223. On information and belief, dealerships have reported that the first recall remedy was ineffective, many of the Class Vehicles have had to be fixed more than once, and even FCA's own dealers are unsure whether the second recall remedy will effectively fix the Defective Shifter, thus requiring Plaintiffs and members of the Classes to devote even more time to remedying this defect.

224. FCA already has admitted that at least 13,000 Class Vehicles in the United States have not been properly fixed even though they were recalled and repaired by the Company.⁹⁹ According to a November 16, 2016 Associated Press article: "The new software was supposed to make the cars and SUVs automatically shift into park when the driver's door is opened while the engine is running. But Fiat Chrysler says the change didn't properly fix 13,000 vehicles in the U.S. and 16,000 in other countries.”¹⁰⁰

225. FCA spokesman Eric Mayne stated: “The software didn’t work in a small number of vehicles with certain engine, transmission and two- or four-wheel-drive combinations . . . In most cases we initiated the installation of that software without the customer having to show up with the recall notice in hand. It just wasn’t the right software for their particular vehicles.”¹⁰¹ Thus, certain Class members have experienced dangerous rollaway incidents after their Class vehicles were repaired, have incurred out-of-pocket costs associated with damage to property and personal injuries, and have incurred insurance deductible and increased premium expenses. In addition, these Class members will have to take additional time off from work and/or their daily activities to take their Class Vehicles to a dealership for additional repairs.

226. FCA sent certain Class members a notice of need for additional repairs, informing them of the need to take their Class Vehicle to the dealership to be fixed for a second time, thus causing additional time to be spent attempting to remedy the defect.¹⁰² The notice of need for additional repairs states:

Our records indicate that the recall repairs were attempted on your vehicle at a FCA US dealer. Further investigation by FCA US has determined, however, that your vehicle did not receive the complete and proper recall repair. Your vehicle's software requires additional updating. . . Until the complete recall repair is performed on your vehicle, your vehicle may roll away striking and injuring you, your passengers, or bystanders, if the vehicle's engine is left running, the parking brake is not engaged and the vehicle is not in the "PARK" position before exiting the vehicle.”¹⁰³

2. FCA's Purported Remedy Has Led to Other Mechanical Failures in Class Vehicles

227. Class members also report that FCA's purported remedy led to other mechanical failures in their Class Vehicles. These mechanical failures occurred shortly after the software update was performed on the Class Vehicles.

228. Below is a sample of complaints lodged with NHTSA as a result of FCA's purported remedy:

MY JEEP WAS SERVICED TWICE FOR THE RECENT SHIFTER PROBLEM THAT CHRYSLER IDENTIFIES AS DRIVER INATTENTION OR CONFUSION. THE SOFTWARE PATCH THAT IS INTENDED TO "AUTO PARK" THE VEHICLE, HAS FAILED ON TWO OCCASIONS. THE ENGINE IS STARTED, I APPLY THE BRAKE AND PLACE THE SHIFTER INTO REVERSE OR A FORWARD GEAR. I THE DESIRED GEAR IS ILLUMINATED AND I EASE OF THE BRAKE, HOWEVER, WHEN APPLY GAS THE ENGINE SIMPLY RACES AS IF THE TRANSMISSION IS STILL IN PARK OR NEUTRAL. JEEPS ATTEMPT TO FIX A PROBLEM HAS NOW LED TO ANOTHER PROBLEM. THIS VEHICLE IS UNRELIABLE AND A DEATH MACHINE. I HAVE NO CONFIDENCE IN IT'S OPERATION AND I CAN'T IN GOOD CONSCIENCE SELL THIS VEHICLE TO ANYONE. JEEP CORPORATE SHOULD BE IN JAIL.

I DRIVE THE 2014 GR CHEROKEE WITH THE ELECTRONIC GEAR SHIFTER THAT HAS BEEN RECALLED FOR THE SHIFTER NOT ENGAGING ALL OF THE WAY INTO PARK. I HAD THE RECALL 'FIX' DONE A COUPLE OF MONTHS AGO, BUT THEN FOUND OUT FROM THE DEALER THAT THE EMERGENCY BRAKE ONLY ENGAGES IF YOU ATTEMPT TO OPEN ONE OF THE DOORS. ABOUT A WEEK AGO, AFTER PARALLEL PARKING ON A BUSY CITY STREET, I PUT THE CAR IN PARK AND REMAINED IN THE CAR FOR ABOUT ANOTHER MINUTE WHILE FISHING QUARTERS OUT OF MY CUPHOLDER (FOR THE PARKING METER). I ALL OF A SUDDEN FELT LIKE SOMETHING HIT MY CAR, LOOKED UP ONLY TO FIND MY CAR HAD ROLLED BACKWARD INTO THE PARKED CAR BEHIND ME. I HAVE A HUGE BIKE RACK ON THE BACK OF MY JEEP THAT BLOCKS THE REVERSE CAMERA, SO THE AUDIBLE SECURITY ALERT IS ALWAYS ON WHEN THE CAR IS IN REVERSE - THIS ALERT DID NOT COME ON WHILE THE CAR WAS ROLLING BACKWARD, THEREFORE, THE CAR WAS NOT IN REVERSE, BUT RATHER NOT IN PARK ALL OF THE WAY. THANKFULLY THERE WERE NO PEDESTRIANS BEHIND MY CAR, NOR ANY DAMAGE TO EITHER VEHICLE, HOWEVER, IF A PERSON WOULD HAVE HAD THEIR BACK TO ME, I WOULD HAVE CRUSHED THEM BETWEEN THE TWO CARS. MY CAR HAS NOW BEEN AT THE DEALERSHIP FOR 6 DAYS (SECOND TIME FOR SAME ISSUE) AND I'M DEALING WITH CUSTOMER SERVICE DEPARTMENTS WITHIN CHRYSLER/JEEP TO RECTIFY THIS ISSUE SOMEHOW. I WANT EITHER A NEW GEAR SHIFTER THAT IS NOT ELECTRONIC, OR TO GET OUT OF THIS VEHICLE. THIS GEAR SHIFTER IS AN ENORMOUS SAFETY HAZARD. I FEEL LIKE I'M GETTING THE RUN-AROUND, TO SAY THE LEAST, ABOUT A MAJOR RECALL THAT IS THE AUTO MAKERS FAULT, NOT THE CONSUMER. FOR THE RECORD, I HAVE BEEN DRIVING APPROXIMATELY 30 YEARS AND TYPICALLY AVERAGE 20-30K MILES/YEAR. I AM CONSULTING A LAWYER AT THIS POINT.

3. FCA's Purported Remedy Diminishes the Functionality of the Class Vehicles

229. Moreover, when effective, the remedy diminishes the functionality of the Class Vehicles. When a driver of a Class Vehicle opens the driver-side door but the car is not in Park, the software fix abruptly places the vehicle in Park even if the driver is not exiting the vehicle, thereby jerking the driver and the vehicle into the Park position.

230. In addition, many Class members purchased or leased their Jeep Grand Cherokees in order to tow cargo. In fact, FCA advertises the Jeep Grand Cherokee as having Best-in-Class Maximum Towing Capacity, stating: “Grand Cherokee can tow a Best-in-Class maximum towing capacity of up to 7,400 pounds.”¹⁰⁴ This functionality has been diminished by FCA’s purported remedy which prevents Class Vehicle owners and lessees from opening the door to visibly check their tow cargo while driving in reverse. When Class Vehicle drivers attempt this standard practice used while towing cargo, their repaired Class Vehicles abruptly jump into Park, thereby destroying the vehicles’ towing feature touted by FCA.

4. Plaintiffs and Class Members Were Harmed by the Recall While Defendant Benefited

231. Plaintiffs and members of the Classes were harmed by the Defective Shifter and recall in a number of ways, in that they, inter alia: (1) did not receive the benefit of the bargain of the purchase or lease of the Class Vehicles which were sold and leased as safe and reliable vehicles at premium prices even though they contained a known but concealed defect; (2) were forced to take time off from work and/or their daily activities in order to have the repair implemented (in some cases more than once); (3) own or lease a repaired vehicle which suffers from continued rollaways or other mechanical failures; (4) own or lease a repaired vehicle with diminished functionality due to the remedy instituted by FCA; and/or

(5) own a vehicle that has substantially diminished in value and is diminishing in value at an increased

232. Defendant benefited and was unjustly enriched as a result of the recall, which forced hundreds of thousands of customers to visit its dealerships nationwide—without the need for FCA to spend millions of dollars on advertising and marketing to drive customers to its dealerships. As explained by an automotive industry consultant in a recent Los Angeles Times article: “Recalls are definitely good for business. Smart dealers actively market recalls by calling up customers.”¹⁰⁵

233. An article in Digital Dealer provided dealers with the following advice regarding recalls: “Typically, you must be spending a lot of time, money and effort on bringing more traffic to your lot. But with recalls so abundant, you surely get more people without moving a finger – people come to get their cars fixed.”¹⁰⁶ According to the article, “a Chrysler estimate during one of its recalls showed that 15 percent of their new car purchases came thanks to the service department,” and “GM managed to sell 6,600 (in one week) during the ignition switch recall.”¹⁰⁷ Indeed, one Dallas-based dealer reported that, during the Ford recall, he “had the largest profit month of [his] career as a dealership owner.”¹⁰⁸

J. FCA’s Delayed and Inadequate Response to the Defective Shifter Deprived Class Members of the Benefit of their Bargain and Has Led to a Decrease in Value of the Class Vehicles

234. Plaintiffs and Class members purchased or leased Class Vehicles based upon a reasonable assumption and based on Defendant’s warranties that the vehicles were safe and free of defects. However, the Class Vehicles delivered by Defendant were not those for which Plaintiffs and Class members bargained. Rather, the Class Vehicles suffered from a common defect—the Defective Shifter. Had Plaintiffs and Class members known of the defect, they would have either (1) paid substantially less for the vehicles; (2) required an immediate remedy that restored the vehicles to the conditions bargained for; or (3) not purchased or leased the Class Vehicles.

235. As a result of the disparity between the quality of the Class Vehicles negotiated for and the Class Vehicles actually received, Plaintiffs and Class members suffered economic harm. This economic harm can be quantified as: (1) the economic value of an effective remedy that restores vehicles to their expected conditions (or the economic harm from the lack of that remedy); (2) the discount that Plaintiffs and Class members would have required to accept the Class Vehicles in their actual condition; and/or (3) the diminished value experienced by the Class Vehicles upon disclosure of the Defective Shifter.

236. A successful repair of the Class Vehicles would not fully compensate Plaintiffs and Class members. Through its concealment of the Defective Shifter, FCA deprived Plaintiffs and Class members of the value of a fully functional vehicle for at least some portion of ownership. Furthermore, Plaintiffs and Class members must monitor the status of their Class Vehicles' defects and incur time and expense in order to execute repairs. Furthermore, prior to an effective repair, FCA has appropriated economic welfare from Plaintiffs and Class members by avoiding or delaying the expense necessary to remedy the Defective Shifter while forcing Plaintiffs and Class members to subsidize them by unknowingly assuming the safety risk associated with driving the Class Vehicles containing the Defective Shifter.

237. Plaintiffs and Class members paid premiums to purchase the Class Vehicles as a result of the brand, reliability, value, and safety representations made by FCA. A car purchased or leased with the reasonable expectation that it is safe and reliable as advertised is worth more than a car known to be subject to the risk of dangerous rollaway incidents. Class members were harmed from the day they drove their Class Vehicle off the lot because they did not get what they paid for—a car that was well-designed and safe to operate.

238. As a direct result of FCA's misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiffs and Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain. Plaintiffs and Class members paid a premium for the Class Vehicles which were advertised as safe and reliable, and received Class Vehicles that contained a known but concealed defect. Defendant was unjustly enriched because it obtained and retained monies paid by Plaintiffs and Class members who paid a price for the Class Vehicles that was higher than the value of the cars they received in return.

239. In addition, following the death of actor Anton Yelchin who was crushed by his rollaway 2015 Jeep Grand Cherokee, there has been widespread disclosure of the design defect of the Defective Shifter in the Class Vehicles. This press has caused a sharp decrease in the value of the Class Vehicles and may have made them essentially unsalable. Each Class member therefore suffered a direct pecuniary loss in the form of the decreased value of their Class Vehicle.

240. The Jeep Grand Cherokee presents a marked example of the diminished value of Class Vehicles. Prior to widespread knowledge of the dangerous shifter defect, these vehicles held their value better than other vehicles in the same class. But after the market became aware of the defect, the depreciation rate of 2014-15 Jeep Grand Cherokee vehicles increased dramatically, as shown in the table below:

Average Monthly Depreciation Middle Sport/Utility Segment
2014 Model Year	Pre-Period 8/2014-5/2016	Post-Period 6/2016-10/2016
Jeep Grand Cherokee	-1.10%	-1.60%
Rest of Class	-1.24%	-1.29%
 2015 Model Year
	Pre-Period 9/2015-5/2016	Post-Period 6/2016-10/2016
Jeep Grand Cherokee	-1.03%	-1.59%
Rest of Class	-1.11%	-1.04%

241. What the above table shows is that prior to market knowledge of the shifter defect, Jeep Grand Cherokee vehicles had monthly depreciation rates that were lower than other vehicles in the same class, thus these cars held their value better than competitive cars. But after the shifter defect became known, the monthly depreciation rates rocketed up for Jeep Grand Cherokees while staying flat, or decreasing for competitors. The effect of the 0.5% increase in monthly depreciation for the Grand Cherokee is substantial. For example, on a $40,000 vehicle, the increase means the car depreciates about $200 more per month, thus at least $2,400 more in just a single year of ownership.

242. The loss in value is particularly acute and affects Class members because they do not want to own unsafe cars that might roll away and crush them or members of their family. Safety, reliability, and quality of design are at the core of FCA's marketing efforts and a driving factor in purchase decisions. Class members want to sell their Class Vehicles but they cannot without incurring substantial losses. In addition, Class members—unlike FCA—are concerned about selling their Class Vehicles to another driver who may experience a dangerous rollaway incident.

243. Moreover, many Class members purchased their vehicles with financing in the form of car loans or leases. The drop in value of the Class Vehicles has caused the financing to be underwater, meaning that Class members will have to pay money over and above whatever they can sell their car for.

244. In addition, many Class members purchased expensive extended warranties for their Class Vehicles, intending to own the vehicles for many years beyond the initial warranty. However, as a result of the Defective Shifter, Class members no longer want to own the Class Vehicles and when they sell them, in addition to losses from the cars being worth much less as a result of the defect, they will lose the value of the extended warranties that they purchased.

245. As a result of FCA's unfair, deceptive, and/or fraudulent business practices, and its failure to disclose that the Defective Shifter is unsafe and defectively designed, owners and/or lessees of the Class Vehicles have suffered losses in money and/or property. Had Plaintiffs and Class members known of the defect at the time they purchased or leased their Class Vehicles, they would not have purchased or leased those vehicles, or would have paid substantially less for the vehicles than they did.

V. TOLLING OF THE STATUE OF LIMITATIONS AND ESTOPPEL

A. Discovery Rule Tolling

246. Class members had no way of knowing about FCA's Defective Shifters in their Class Vehicles. As evidenced by its foot-dragging in resolving the issue and implementing a fix, FCA was intent on expressly hiding its behavior from regulators and consumers. This is the quintessential case for tolling.

247. Within the period of any applicable statutes of limitation, Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class could not have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence that FCA was concealing the design defect complained of herein and misrepresenting the company's true position with respect to the safety qualities of its vehicles.

248. Within the period of any applicable statutes of limitation, Plaintiffs and the other Class members could not have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence that FCA was concealing the Defective Shifter.

249. For these reasons, all applicable statutes of limitation have been tolled by operation of the discovery rule with respect to claims as to all vehicles identified herein.

B. Estoppel

250. FCA was under a continuous duty to disclose to Plaintiffs and the other Class members the true character, quality, and nature of the Defective Shifter in the vehicles at issue.

251. FCA knowingly, affirmatively, and actively concealed the true nature, quality, and character of the Defective Shifter in the vehicles at issue.

252. Based on the foregoing, FCA is estopped from relying on any statutes of limitations in defense of this action.

254. Excluded from the Class are individuals who have personal injury claims resulting from the defectively designed Defective Shifters in their Class Vehicles. Also excluded from the Class are FCA, its employees, co-conspirators, officers, directors, legal representatives, heirs, successors, wholly- or partly-owned, and its subsidiaries and affiliates, FCA dealers, Class counsel and their employees, and the judicial officers and their immediate family members and associated court staff assigned to this case, all persons who make a timely election to be excluded from the Class, governmental entities, and the judge to whom this case is assigned and his/her immediate family.

255. Certification of Plaintiffs' claims for class-wide treatment is appropriate because Plaintiffs can prove the elements of their claims on a class-wide basis using the same evidence as would be used to prove those elements in individual actions alleging the same claim.

256. This action has been brought and may be properly maintained on behalf of the Class proposed herein under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23.

257. Numerosity. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(1): The members of the Class are so numerous and geographically dispersed that individual joinder of all Class members is impracticable. There are over 800,000 Class Vehicles that have been sold in the United States. Class members may be notified of the pendency of this action by recognized, Court-approved notice dissemination methods, which may include U.S. Mail, electronic mail, Internet postings, and/or published notice.

258. Commonality and Predominance. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(2) and 23(b)(3): This action involves common questions of law and fact, which predominate over any questions affecting individual Class members, including, without limitation:

- a. Whether FCA engaged in the conduct alleged herein;
- b. Whether FCA designed, advertised, marketed, distributed, leased, sold, or otherwise placed the Class Vehicles into the stream of commerce in the United States;
- c. Whether the Defective Shifter system in the Class Vehicles contains a safety defect;
- d. Whether FCA knew about the defect in the Defective Shifter and, if so, how long FCA has known of it;
- e. Whether FCA designed, manufactured, marketed, and distributed the Class Vehicles with a Defective Shifter;
- f. Whether FCA's conduct violates consumer protection statutes, false advertising laws, sales contracts, warranty laws, and other laws as asserted herein;
- g. Whether Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles;
- h. Whether Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to equitable relief, including, but not limited to, restitution or injunctive relief; and

i. Whether Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to damages and other monetary relief and, if so, in what amount.

259. Typicality. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(3): Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the other Class members' claims because, among other things, all Class members were comparably injured through FCA's wrongful conduct as described above.

260. Adequacy. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(4): Plaintiffs are adequate Class representatives because their interests do not conflict with the interests of the other members of the Class they seek to represent; Plaintiffs have retained counsel competent and experienced in complex class action litigation; and Plaintiffs intend to prosecute this action vigorously. The interests of the Class will be fairly and adequately protected by Plaintiffs and their counsel.

261. Declaratory and Injunctive Relief. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(2): FCA has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief and declaratory relief with respect to the Class as a whole.

262. Superiority. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3): A class action is superior to any other available means for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, and no unusual difficulties are likely to be encountered in the management of this class action. The damages or other financial detriment suffered by Plaintiffs and the other Class members are relatively small compared to the burden and expense that would be required to individually litigate their claims against FCA, so it would be impracticable for the members of the Class to individually seek redress for FCA's wrongful conduct. Even if Class members could afford individual litigation, the court system could not. Individualized litigation creates a potential for inconsistent or contradictory judgments, and increases the delay and expense to all parties and the court system. By contrast, the class action device presents far fewer management difficulties, and provides the benefits of single adjudication, economy of scale, and comprehensive supervision by a single court.

VII. VIOLATIONS ALLEGED

A. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Nationwide Class

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF THE MAGNUSON-MOSS WARRANTY ACT (15 U.S.C. § 2301, ET SEQ.)

263. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

264. This claim is brought on behalf of the Nationwide Class.

265. Plaintiffs are "consumers" within the meaning of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2301(3).

266. FCA is a "supplier" and "warrantor" within the meaning of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2301(4)-(5).

267. The Class Vehicles are “consumer products” within the meaning of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2301(1).

268. 15 U.S.C. § 2301(d)(1) provides a cause of action for any consumer who is damaged by the failure of a warrantor to comply with a written or implied warranty.

269. FCA’s express warranties are written warranties within the meaning of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2301(6). The Class Vehicles’ implied warranties are covered under 15 U.S.C. § 2301(7).

270. FCA breached these warranties, as described in more detail above. Without limitation, the Class Vehicles are equipped with a defective Defective Shifter that puts vehicle occupants’ safety in jeopardy. The Class Vehicles share a common design defect in that the Defective Shifter is defectively designed and unsafe, contrary to FCA’s representations about its vehicles. The Class Vehicles share a common design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position.

271. Plaintiffs and the other Nationwide Class members have had sufficient direct dealings with either FCA or its agents (e.g., dealerships and technical support) to establish privity of contract between FCA on one hand, and Plaintiffs and each of the other Nationwide Class members on the other hand. Nonetheless, privity is not required here because Plaintiffs and each of the other Nationwide

Class members are intended third-party beneficiaries of contracts between FCA and its dealers, and specifically, of FCA's implied warranties. The dealers were not intended to be the ultimate consumers of the Class Vehicles and have no rights under the warranty agreements provided with the Class Vehicles; the warranty agreements were designed for and intended to benefit the consumers only.

272. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here. Indeed, FCA has already attempted to do so through an ineffective recall campaign. However, the recall has failed to cure the defect.

273. At the time of sale or lease of each Class Vehicle, FCA knew, should have known, or was reckless in not knowing of its misrepresentations and omissions concerning the Class Vehicles' inability to perform as warranted, but nonetheless failed to rectify the situation and/or disclose the defective design. Under the circumstances, the remedies available under any informal settlement procedure would be inadequate and any requirement that Plaintiffs resort to an informal dispute resolution procedure and/or afford FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of warranties is excused and thereby deemed satisfied.

274. Plaintiffs and the other Nationwide Class members would suffer economic hardship if they returned their Class Vehicles but did not receive the return of all payments made by them. Because FCA is refusing to acknowledge any revocation of acceptance and return immediately any payments made, Plaintiffs and the other Nationwide Class members have not re-accepted their Class Vehicles by retaining them.

275. The amount in controversy of Plaintiffs' individual claims meets or exceeds the sum of $25. The amount in controversy of this action exceeds the sum of $50,000, exclusive of interest and costs, computed on the basis of all claims to be determined in this lawsuit.

276. Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Nationwide Class members, seek all damages permitted by law, including diminution in value of the Class Vehicles, in an amount to be proven at trial.

B. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Arizona Subclass
COUNT I

VIOLATION OF CONSUMER FRAUD ACT
 (ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1521, ET SEQ.)

277. Plaintiffs Jeffrey Guy, Casey E. Perkins, and Wisam Yacoub ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all Arizona Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

278. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Arizona Subclass.

279. FCA, Plaintiffs, and the Arizona Subclass are "persons" within the meaning of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act ("Arizona CFA"), ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1521(6).

280. The Class Vehicles are “merchandise” within the meaning of ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1521(5).

281. The Arizona CFA proscribes “[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive act or practice, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby.” ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1522(A).

282. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

283. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

284. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

285. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Arizona CFA.

286. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

287. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Arizona Subclass.

288. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Arizona CFA.

289. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

290. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

291. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

292. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Arizona Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

293. Plaintiffs and the Arizona Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Arizona CFA.

294. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Arizona CFA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

295. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

296. The recalls and modifications instituted by FCA have not been adequate.

297. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Arizona CFA, Plaintiffs and the Arizona Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

298. Plaintiffs and the Arizona Subclass seek monetary relief against FCA in an amount to be determined at trial. Plaintiffs and the Arizona Subclass also seek punitive damages because FCA engaged in aggravated and outrageous conduct with an evil mind.

299. Plaintiffs also seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Arizona CFA.

COUNT II

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (BASED ON ARIZONA LAW)

300. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

301. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Arizona Subclass.

302. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

303. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

304. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

305. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

306. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

307. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

308. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

309. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

310. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

VIOLATION OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 47-2313, ET SEQ.)

311. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

312. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of themselves and the Arizona Subclass.

313. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles under ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 47-2104(A).

314. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly, for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

315. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

316. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

317. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

318. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

319. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

320. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

321. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

322. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

323. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of “replacements or adjustments,” as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA’s fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA’s failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs’ and the other Class members’ remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

324. Finally, due to FCA’s breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiffs and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, as set forth in ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 47-2711, the revocation of acceptance of the goods, and the return to Plaintiffs and the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed under ARIZ. REV. STAT. §§ 47-2711 and 47-2608.

325. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

326. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

VIOLATION OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 47-2314)

327. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

328. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of themselves and the Arizona Subclass.

329. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles under ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 47-2104(A).

330. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

331. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

332. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

333. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

334. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of themselves and the Arizona Subclass.

335. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and inequity has resulted.

336. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

337. Thus, all Arizona Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

338. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

339. Plaintiffs and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

340. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

341. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

C. Claims Brought on Behalf of the California Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF CALIFORNIA'S UNFAIR COMPETITION LAW
(CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200, ET SEQ.)

342. Plaintiffs David Goldsmith, Michael Vincent Nathan Jr., and Pascual Pietri ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all California Class Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

343. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

344. California's Unfair Competition Law ("UCL"), CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200, et seq., proscribes acts of unfair competition, including "any unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising."

345. FCA's conduct, as described herein, was and is in violation of the UCL. FCA's conduct violates the UCL in at least the following ways:

- a. By knowingly and intentionally concealing from Plaintiffs and the other Class members that the Class Vehicles suffer from a design defect while obtaining money from Plaintiffs and the Class;

- b. By marketing the Class Vehicles as possessing functional and defect-free transmission systems;
- c. By refusing or otherwise failing to repair and/or replace defective transmission systems in Class Vehicles;
- d. By violating federal laws, including the Motor Vehicle Safety Act and NHTSA regulations, by failing to recall and repair vehicles that contain a safety defect; and
- e. By violating other California laws, including California laws governing false advertising and consumer protection.

346. FCA's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein caused Plaintiffs and the other Class members to make their purchases or leases of their Class Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have purchased or leased these vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Class Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain defective Defective Shifters.

347. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have suffered injury in fact, including lost money or property, as a result of FCA's misrepresentations and omissions.

348. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

349. Plaintiffs seek to enjoin further unlawful, unfair, and/or fraudulent acts or practices by FCA under CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200.

350. Plaintiffs request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be necessary to enjoin FCA from continuing its unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices; to restore to Plaintiffs and members of the Class any money it acquired by unfair competition, including restitution and/or restitutionary disgorgement, as provided in CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17203 & 3345; and for such other relief set forth below.

COUNT II

VIOLATION OF CALIFORNIA'S CONSUMERS LEGAL REMEDIES ACT (CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, ET SEQ.)

351. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

352. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

353. California's Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA"), CAL. CIV. CODE § 1750, et seq., proscribes "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or which results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer."

354. The Class Vehicles are “goods” as defined in CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1751(a).

355. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are “consumers” as defined in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1761(d), and Plaintiffs, the other Class members, and FCA are “persons” as defined in CAL. CIV. CODE § 1761(c).

356. As alleged above, FCA made numerous representations concerning the benefits, efficiency, performance, and safety features of the Class Vehicles that were misleading.

357. In purchasing or leasing the Class Vehicles, Plaintiffs and the other Class members were deceived by FCA’s failure to disclose that the Class Vehicles were equipped with defective Defective Shifters.

358. FCA’s conduct, as described herein, was and is in violation of the CLRA. FCA’s conduct violates at least the following enumerated CLRA provisions:

- a. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a)(2): Misrepresenting the approval or certification of goods;
- b. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a)(5): Representing that goods have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, uses, benefits, or quantities which they do not have;
- c. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a)(7): Representing that goods are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, if they are of another;
- d. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a)(9): Advertising goods with intent not to sell them as advertised; and

e. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1770(a)(16): Representing that goods have been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when they have not.

359. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have suffered injury in fact and actual damages resulting from FCA's material omissions and misrepresentations because they paid an inflated purchase or lease price for the Class Vehicles.

360. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

361. FCA knew, should have known, or was reckless in not knowing of the defective design and/or manufacture of the Defective Shifter, and that the Class Vehicles were not suitable for their intended use.

362. The facts concealed and omitted by FCA to Plaintiffs and the other Class members are material in that a reasonable consumer would have considered them to be important in deciding whether to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles or pay a lower price. Had Plaintiffs and the other Class members known about the defective nature of the Class Vehicles, they would not have purchased or leased the Class Vehicles or would not have paid the prices they paid in fact.

363. In accordance with Civil Code § 1780 (a), Plaintiffs and the other Class members seek injunctive and equitable relief for FCA's violations of the CLRA, including an injunction to enjoin FCA from continuing its deceptive advertising and sales practices.

364. Plaintiffs have provided FCA with notice of its violations of the CLRA pursuant to CAL. CIV. CODE § 1782(a). The notice was transmitted to FCA on July 8, 2016.

365. Plaintiffs and the other Class members' injuries were proximately caused by FCA's fraudulent and deceptive business practices.

366. Therefore, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to equitable and monetary relief under the CLRA.

COUNT III

VIOLATION OF CALIFORNIA'S FALSE ADVERTISING LAW (CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17500, ET SEQ.)

367. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

368. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

369. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17500 states: "It is unlawful for any . . . corporation . . . with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property . . . to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated . . . from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, . . . or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the Internet, any statement . . . which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading.”

370. FCA caused to be made or disseminated through California and the United States, through advertising, marketing and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should have been known to FCA, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

371. FCA has violated CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17500 because the misrepresentations and omissions regarding the safety, reliability, and functionality of Class Vehicles, as set forth in this Complaint, were material and likely to deceive a reasonable consumer.

372. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have suffered an injury in fact, including the loss of money or property, as a result of FCA’s unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices. In purchasing or leasing their Class Vehicles, Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on the misrepresentations and/or omissions of FCA with respect to the safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles. FCA’s representations turned out not to be true because the Class Vehicles are distributed with defectively designed Defective Shifters, rendering essential vehicle functions inoperative. Had Plaintiffs and the other Class members known this, they would not have purchased or leased their Class Vehicles and/or paid as much for them. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

373. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

374. All of the wrongful conduct alleged herein occurred, and continues to occur, in the conduct of FCA's business. FCA's wrongful conduct is part of a pattern or generalized course of conduct that is still perpetuated and repeated, both in the state of California and nationwide.

375. Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be necessary to enjoin FCA from continuing their unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices, to restore to Plaintiffs and the other Class members any money FCA acquired by unfair competition, including restitution and/or restitutionary disgorgement, and for such other relief set forth below.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (CAL. COM. CODE § 2314)

376. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

377. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

378. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles under CAL. COM. CODE § 2314.

379. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions, pursuant to CAL. COM. CODE § 2314.

380. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter is unsafe, and was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

381. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

382. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have had sufficient direct dealings with either FCA or their agents (dealerships) to establish privity of contract between Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Notwithstanding this, privity is not required in this case because Plaintiffs and the other Class members are intended third-party beneficiaries of contracts between FCA and its dealers; specifically, they are the intended beneficiaries of FCA's implied warrantied. The dealers were not intended to be the ultimate consumers of the Class Vehicles and have no rights under the warranty agreements provided with the Class Vehicles; the warranty agreements were designed for and intended to benefit the ultimate consumers only. Finally, privity is also not required because Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' Class Vehicles are dangerous instrumentalities due to the aforementioned defects and nonconformities.

383. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (BASED ON CALIFORNIA LAW)

384. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

385. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

386. As set forth above, FCA concealed and/or suppressed material facts concerning the safety, quality, functionality, and reliability of the Class Vehicles.

387. FCA had a duty to disclose these safety, quality, functionality, and reliability issues because they consistently marketed the Class Vehicles as safe and proclaimed that safety is one of FCA's highest corporate priorities. Once FCA made representations to the public about safety, quality, functionality, and reliability, FCA was under a duty to disclose these omitted facts, because where one does speak one must speak the whole truth and not conceal any facts which materially qualify those facts stated. One who volunteers information must be truthful, and the telling of a half-truth calculated to deceive is fraud.

388. In addition, FCA had a duty to disclose these omitted material facts because they were known and/or accessible only to FCA which has superior knowledge and access to the facts, and FCA knew they were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs and the other Class members. These omitted facts were material because they directly impact the safety, quality, functionality, and reliability of the Class Vehicles.

389. Whether or not the Class Vehicles' Defective Shifter worked; whether the Defective Shifter reliably shifted into park when the driver intended to idle the vehicle, whether the Defective Shifter provided sufficient tactile feedback to drivers intending to place their vehicle in park; and whether the Defective Shifter, in fact, could and should have been equipped with a safety override, such as an auto-park feature, in order to mitigate risk to consumers, are material safety concerns. FCA possessed exclusive knowledge of the defects rendering the Class Vehicles inherently more dangerous and unreliable than similar vehicles.

390. FCA actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, with the intent to induce Plaintiffs and the other Class members to purchase or lease Class Vehicles at a higher price for the Class Vehicles which did not match the Class Vehicles' true value.

391. FCA still has not made full and adequate disclosure and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

392. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were unaware of these omitted material facts and would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts. Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' actions were justified. FCA was in exclusive control of the material facts and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or the Class.

393. As a result of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and the other Class members sustained damage.

394. FCA's acts were done maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' rights and well-being to enrich FCA. FCA's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT VI

VIOLATION OF THE SONG-BEVERLY CONSUMER WARRANTY ACT FOR BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTIES (CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1791.2 & 1793.2(D))

395. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

396. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

397. Plaintiffs and the other Class members who purchased or leased the Class Vehicles in California are “buyers” within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code § 1791(b).

398. The Class Vehicles are “consumer goods” within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code § 1791(a).

399. FCA is a “manufacturer” of the Class Vehicles within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code § 1791(j).

400. Plaintiffs and the other Class members bought/leased new motor vehicles manufactured by FCA.

401. FCA made express warranties to Plaintiffs and the other Class members within the meaning of Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1791.2 and 1793.2, as described above.

402. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly, for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

403. As set forth above in detail, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter is monostable, yet does not have a safety override that automatically puts the car in “Park” if the driver’s door is opened and the driver attempts to exit the vehicle, a defect that was and continues to be covered by FCA’s express warranties, and this defect substantially impairs the use, value, and safety of the defective Shifter Vehicles to reasonable consumers like Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

404. Plaintiffs Goldsmith, Nathan Jr., Pietri, and other Class members delivered their Class Vehicles to FCA or its authorized repair facility for repair of the defect and/or notified FCA in writing of the need for repair the defect because they reasonably could not deliver the Class Vehicles to FCA or its authorized repair facility due to fear of the Defective Shifter defect.

405. FCA and its authorized repair facilities failed and continue to fail to repair the Class Vehicles to match FCA’s written warranties after a reasonable number of opportunities to do so.

406. Plaintiffs and the other Class members gave FCA or its authorized repair facilities at least two opportunities to fix the defect unless only one repair attempt was possible because the vehicle was later destroyed or because FCA or its authorized repair facility refused to attempt the repair.

407. FCA did not promptly replace or buy back the Class Vehicles of Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

408. As a result of FCA's breach of its express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members received goods whose dangerous condition substantially impairs their value to Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged as a result of the diminished value of FCA's products, the products' malfunctioning, and the nonuse of their Class Vehicles.

409. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1793.2 & 1794, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to damages and other legal and equitable relief including, at their election, the purchase price of their Class Vehicles, or the overpayment or diminution in value of their Class Vehicles.

410. Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code § 1794, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to costs and attorneys' fees.

COUNT VII

VIOLATION OF THE SONG-BEVERLY CONSUMER WARRANTY ACT FOR BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1791.1 & 1792)

411. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

412. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

413. Plaintiffs and the other Class members who purchased or leased the Class Vehicles in California are “buyers” within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1791(b).

414. The Class Vehicles are “consumer goods” within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1791(a).

415. FCA is a “manufacturer” of the Class Vehicles within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE § 1791(j).

416. FCA impliedly warranted to Plaintiffs and the other Class members that its Class Vehicles were “merchantable” within the meaning of CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1791.1(a) & 1792; however, the Class Vehicles do not have the quality that a buyer would reasonably expect.

417. CAL. CIV. CODE § 1791.1(a) states:

“Implied warranty of merchantability” or “implied warranty that goods are merchantable” means that the consumer goods meet each of the following:

- (1) Pass without objection in the trade under the contract description.

- (2) Are fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used.
- (3) Are adequately contained, packaged, and labeled.
- (4) Conform to the promises or affirmations of fact made on the container or label.

418. The Class Vehicles would not pass without objection in the automotive trade because of the defects in the Class Vehicles' Defective Shifter. Specifically, the Defective Shifter is monostable, yet does not have a safety override that automatically puts the car in "Park" if the driver's door is opened and the driver attempts to exit the vehicle. In addition, the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

419. Because of the defects in the Class Vehicles' Defective Shifter, they are not in merchantable condition and thus not fit for ordinary purposes.

420. The Class Vehicles are not adequately labeled because the labeling fails to disclose the defects in the Class Vehicles' Defective Shifter.

421. FCA breached the implied warranty of merchantability by manufacturing and selling the Class Vehicles containing the defectively designed Defective Shifter. Furthermore, these defects have caused Plaintiffs and the other Class members to not receive the benefit of their bargain and have caused the Class Vehicles to depreciate in value.

422. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the implied warranty of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members received goods whose defective condition substantially impairs their value to Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged as a result of the diminished value of FCA's products, the products' malfunctioning, and the non-use of their Class Vehicles.

423. Pursuant to CAL. CIV. CODE §§ 1791.1(d) & 1794, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to damages and other legal and equitable relief, including, at their election, the purchase price of their Class Vehicles, or the overpayment or diminution in value of their Class Vehicles.

424. Pursuant to CAL. CIV. CODE § 1794, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to costs and attorneys' fees.

D. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Colorado Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE COLORADO CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT (COLO. REV. STAT. §§ 6-1-101, ET SEQ.)

425. Plaintiff Debra Felker ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Colorado Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

426. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

427. Colorado's Consumer Protection Act (the "CCPA") prohibits a person from engaging in a "deceptive trade practice," which includes knowingly making "a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods,” or “a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of goods.” Colo. Rev. Stat. § 6-1-105(1)(b), (e).

428. FCA is a “person” within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. § 6-1-102(6).

429. In the course of FCA’s business, it failed to disclose, and actively concealed, the dangerous risk of faulty and defective Defective Shifters in Class Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, FCA engaged in conduct likely to deceive.

430. FCA’s actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

431. FCA’s conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiff and the other Class members.

432. Plaintiff and the other Class members were injured as a result of FCA’s conduct in that Plaintiff and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Class Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of FCA’s omissions.

COUNT II

STRICT PRODUCT LIABILITY (BASED ON COLORADO LAW)

433. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

434. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

435. Colorado law recognizes an action for product defects that complements Colorado's Product Liability Statute, Colo. Rev. Stat. Title 13, Article 21, Part 4.

436. FCA is a "manufacturer" and "seller" of the Class Vehicles within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. § 13-21-401(1).

437. FCA manufactured and sold the Class Vehicles in a defective condition and in a condition that was unreasonably dangerous to drivers, other motorists, pedestrians, and others or to their property, including persons who may reasonably be expected to use, consume, or be affected by them, in at least the following respects: (i) the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, assembled, fabricated, produced, and constructed in that they contain faulty and defective Defective Shifters which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position; and (ii) the Class Vehicles were not accompanied by adequate warnings about their defective nature.

438. The Class Vehicles were defective and unreasonably dangerous at the time they were sold by FCA and were intended to and did reach Plaintiff and the other Class Members in substantially the same condition as they were in when they were manufactured, sold, and left the control of FCA.

439. Plaintiff and the other Class members are persons who were reasonably expected to use, consume, or be affected by the Class Vehicles.

440. As a direct and proximate result of the defective and unreasonably dangerous conditions of the Class Vehicles, Plaintiff and the other Class members have suffered damages.

COUNT III

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (BASED ON COLORADO LAW)

441. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

442. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

443. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

444. FCA further omitted from Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

445. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

446. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

447. FCA had a duty to disclose that these Class Vehicles were defective, unsafe, and unreliable in that the Defective Shifter can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

448. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

449. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. FCA knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that people had experienced roll-away incidents. FCA intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Class Vehicles.

450. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

452. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (COLO. REV. STAT. §§ 4-2-313 AND 4-2.5-210)

453. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

454. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

455. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Colo. Rev. Stat. §§ 4-2-104(1) and 4-2.5-103(3); and is a “seller” of motor vehicles under Colo. Rev. Stat. § 4-2-103(1)(d).

456. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times “lessors” of motor vehicles under Ariz. Rev. Stat. § 47-2a103(A)(16).

457. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Colo. Rev. Stat. § 4-2.5-103(1)(p).

458. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

459. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

460. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

461. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

462. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

463. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

464. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

465. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

466. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

467. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

468. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

469. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (COLO. REV. STAT. §§ 4-2-313 AND 4-2.5-212)

470. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

471. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

472. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Colo. Rev. Stat. §§ 4-2-104(1) and 4-2.5-103(3); and is a “seller” of motor vehicles under Colo. Rev. Stat. § 4-2.5-103(1)(d).

473. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times “lessors” of motor vehicles under Colo. Rev. Stat. § 4-2.5-103(1)(p).

474. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning Colo. Rev. Stat. § 4-2-105(1) and 4-2.5-103(1)(h).

475. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

476. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

477. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT VI
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

478. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

479. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

480. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

481. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

482. Thus, all Colorado Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

483. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

484. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

485. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

486. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

E. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Florida Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF FLORIDA'S UNFAIR &
DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(FLA. STAT. § 501.201, ET SEQ.)

487. Plaintiff Justine Andollo ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Florida Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

488. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

489. Plaintiff and Class members are "consumers" within the meaning of the Florida Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("FUDTPA"), FLA. STAT. § 501.203(7).

490. FCA engaged in "trade or commerce" within the meaning of FLA. STAT. § 501.203(8).

491. The FUDTPA prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." FLA. STAT. § 501.204(1).

492. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

493. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

494. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

495. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the FUDTPA.

496. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

497. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Florida Subclass.

498. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the FUDTPA.

499. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

500. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

501. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

502. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Florida Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

503. Plaintiff and the Florida Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the FUDTPA.

504. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the FUDTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

505. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

506. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the FUDTPA, Plaintiffs and the Florida Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

507. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

508. Plaintiff and the Florida Subclass are entitled to recover their actual damages under FLA. STAT. § 501.211(2) and attorneys' fees under FLA. STAT. § 501.2105(1).

509. Plaintiffs also seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair and/or deceptive acts or practices, punitive damages, and attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the FUDTPA.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT
(BASED ON FLORIDA LAW)

510. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

511. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

512. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

513. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

514. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

515. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

516. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

517. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

518. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

519. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

520. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (FLA. STAT. § 672.313)

521. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

522. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

523. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

524. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover "defect in materials or workmanship." FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

525. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

526. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

527. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

528. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

529. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

530. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

531. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

532. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

533. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

534. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

535. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (FLA. STAT. § 672.314)

536. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

537. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

538. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

539. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

540. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

541. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

542. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

543. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

544. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

545. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

546. Thus, all Florida Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

547. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

548. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

549. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

550. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

F. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Georgia Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF GEORGIA'S FAIR BUSINESS PRACTICES ACT
(GA. CODE ANN. § 10-1-390, ET SEQ.)

551. Plaintiff Erica Willis (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Georgia Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

552. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

553. The Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (“Georgia FBPA”) declares “[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce” to be unlawful, Ga. Code. Ann. § 10-1-393(a), including but not limited to “representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have,” “[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade . . . if they are of another,” and “[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised,” Ga. Code. Ann. § 10-1-393(b).

554. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

555. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

557. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Georgia FBPA.

558. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA

brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

559. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass.

560. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Georgia FBPA.

561. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

562. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

563. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

564. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

565. Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Georgia FBPA.

566. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Georgia FBPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

567. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

568. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Georgia FBPA, Plaintiffs and the Georgia Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

569. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

570. Plaintiff and the Georgia Class are entitled to recover damages and exemplary damages (for intentional violations) per Ga. Code. Ann § 10-1-399(a).

571. Plaintiffs also seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia FBPA per Ga. Code. Ann § 10-1-399.

572. On July 8, 2016, certain Plaintiffs sent a letter complying with Ga. Code. Ann § 10-1-399(b). Because FCA failed to remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiff and the Georgia Class are entitled.

COUNT II

VIOLATION OF GEORGIA'S UNIFORM DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT (GA. CODE ANN. § 10-1-370, ET SEQ.)

573. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

574. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

575. FCA, Plaintiff, and the Georgia Subclass are “persons” within the meaning of Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (“Georgia UDTPA”), Ga. Code. Ann § 10-1-371(5).

576. The Georgia UDTPA prohibits “deceptive trade practices,” which include the “misrepresentation of standard or quality of goods or services,” and “engaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.” Ga. Code. Ann § 10-1-372(a).

577. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

578. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

580. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Georgia UDTPA.

581. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA

brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

582. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass.

583. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Georgia UDTPA.

584. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

585. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

586. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

587. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

588. Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Georgia UDTPA.

589. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Georgia UDTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

590. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

591. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Georgia UDTPA, Plaintiffs and the Georgia Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

592. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

593. Plaintiffs seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia UDTPA per Ga. Code. Ann § 10-1-373.

COUNT III
FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

594. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

595. This claim is brought on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

596. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

597. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

598. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

599. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

600. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

601. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

602. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

603. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

604. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (GA. CODE ANN. § 11-2-313)

605. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

606. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

607. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

608. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

609. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

610. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

611. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

612. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

613. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

614. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

615. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

616. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

617. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of “replacements or adjustments,” as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA’s fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA’s failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff’s and the other Class members’ remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

618. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

619. As a direct and proximate result of FCA’s breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (GA. CODE ANN. § 11-2-314)

620. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

621. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

622. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

623. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

624. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

625. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT VI
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

626. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

627. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

628. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

629. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

630. Thus, all Georgia Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

631. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

632. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

633. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

634. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

G. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Illinois Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF ILLINOIS CONSUMER FRAUD AND DECEPTIVE BUSINESS PRACTICES ACT
(815 ILCS 505/1, ET SEQ. AND 720 ILCS 295/1A)

635. Plaintiffs Kean McDonald and Lindsey Wells ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all Illinois Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

636. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

637. Defendant is a “person” as that term is defined in 815 ILCS 505/1(c).

638. Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass are “consumers” as that term is defined in 815 ILCS 505/1(e).

639. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act (“Illinois CFA”) prohibits “unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including but not limited to the use or employment of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact . . . in the conduct of trade or commerce . . . whether any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby.” 815 ILCS 505/2.

640. FCA participated in misleading, false, or deceptive practices that violated the Illinois CFA. By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the Defective Shifter was not safe, by marketing its Class Vehicles as safe and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Illinois CFA.

641. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

642. FCA has known that the Defective Shifter was defectively designed and was not safe for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

643. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

644. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in unfair and deceptive business practices in violation of the Illinois CFA.

645. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

646. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

647. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass.

648. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Illinois CFA.

649. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

650. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;

- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

651. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

652. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

653. Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Illinois CFA.

654. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Illinois CFA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

655. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

656. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Illinois CFA, Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

657. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

658. Pursuant to 815 ILCS 505/10a(a), Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass seek monetary relief against FCA in the amount of actual damages, as well as punitive damages because FCA acted with fraud and/or malice and/or was grossly negligent.

659. Plaintiffs also seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair and/or deceptive acts or practices, punitive damages, and attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the 815 ILCS 505/1 et seq.

COUNT III
FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

660. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

661. This claim is brought on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

662. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

663. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

664. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

665. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

666. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

667. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

668. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

669. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

670. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (810 ILL. COMP. STAT. 5/2-313)

671. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

672. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

673. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

674. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover "defect in materials or workmanship." FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

675. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

676. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

677. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

678. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

679. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

680. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

681. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

682. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

683. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

684. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

685. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

VIOLATION OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (800 ILL. COMP STAT. 5/2-314 AND 5/2A-212)

686. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

687. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

688. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under 810 Ill. Comp. Stat. §§ 5/2-104(1) and 5/2A-103(3), and a "seller" of motor vehicles under § 5/2-103(1)(d).

689. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a "lessor" with respect to motor vehicles under 810 Ill. Comp. Stat. §§ 5/2-103(1)(p).

690. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter system was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested and does not include a safety override to prevent roll-away incidents.

691. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

692. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

693. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

694. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

695. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and the Class and inequity has resulted.

696. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

697. Thus, all Illinois Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

698. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

699. Plaintiffs were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

700. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

701. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

H. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Iowa Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE PRIVATE RIGHT OF ACTION FOR CONSUMER FRAUDS ACT (IOWA CODE § 714H.1, ET SEQ.)

702. Plaintiff Pamela Havnen ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Iowa Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

703. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Iowa Subclass.

704. Defendant is a "person" under Iowa Code § 714H.2(7).

705. Plaintiff and the Iowa Subclass are "consumers" as that term is defined by Iowa Code § 714H.2(3), who purchased or leased one or more Class Vehicles.

706. The Iowa Private Right of Action for Consumer Frauds Act ("Iowa CFA") prohibits any "practice or act the person knows or reasonably should know is an unfair practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, or false promise, or the misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission of a material fact, with the intent that others rely upon the unfair practice, deception, fraud false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the advertisement, sale or lease of consumer merchandise.” Iowa Code § 714H.3.

707. FCA participated in misleading, false, or deceptive practices that violated the Iowa CFA. By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the Defective Shifter was not safe, by marketing its Class Vehicles as safe and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Iowa CFA.

708. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

709. FCA has known that the Defective Shifter was defectively designed and was not safe for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

710. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

711. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in unfair and deceptive business practices in violation of the Illinois CFA.

712. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

713. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA

brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

714. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Iowa Subclass.

715. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Iowa CFA.

716. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

717. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

718. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

719. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Iowa Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

720. Plaintiff and the Iowa Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Iowa CFA.

721. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Iowa CFA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

722. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

723. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Iowa CFA, Plaintiff and the Iowa Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

724. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

725. Pursuant to Iowa Code § 714H.5, Plaintiff and the Iowa Subclass seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair and/or deceptive acts or practices; actual damages; in addition to an award of actual damages, statutory damages up to three times the amount of actual damages awarded as a result of FCA's willful and wanton disregard for the rights and safety of others; attorneys' fees; and such other equitable relief as the Court deems necessary to protect the public from further violations of the Iowa CFA.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

726. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

727. This claim is brought on behalf of the Iowa Subclass.

728. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

729. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

730. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

731. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

732. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

733. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

734. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

735. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

736. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (IOWA CODE § 554.2313 AND 554.13210)

737. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

738. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Iowa Subclass.

739. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles under Iowa Code § 554.2104.

740. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessors” of motor vehicles under Iowa Code § 554.13103(1)(p).

741. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

742. FCA’s Limited Warranty formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and the other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with a defective Defective Shifter from FCA.

743. FCA breached the express warranty to repair and adjust to correct defects in materials and workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

744. Furthermore, the limited warranty of repair and/or adjustments to defective parts, fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

745. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty of repair or adjustments to parts defective in materials or workmanship, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

746. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time that FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's Limited Warranty and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

747. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of “replacement or adjustments,” as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA’s fraudulent conduct as alleged herein, and due to its failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, and any limitation on Plaintiff’s and the other Class members’ remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

748. Finally, due to FCA’s breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiff and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, as set forth in Iowa Code § 554.2608, for a revocation of acceptance of the goods, and for a return to Plaintiff and to the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned and for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed under Iowa Code §§ 554.2711 and 554.2608.

749. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including the instant Complaint, and by numerous individual letters and communications sent by Plaintiff and the other Class members before or within a reasonable amount of time after FCA issued the recall and the allegations of Class Vehicle defects became public.

750. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranty, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (IOWA CODE § 554.2314 AND 554.13212)

751. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

752. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Iowa Subclass.

753. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles under Iowa Code § 554.2104(1) and 554.13103(3), and "sellers" of motor vehicles under § 554.2103(1)(d).

754. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a "lessors" of motor vehicles under Iowa Code § 554.13103(1)(p).

755. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition and fit for the ordinary purpose for which vehicles are used is implied by law pursuant to Iowa Code §§ 554.2314 and 554.13212.

756. The Class Vehicles, when sold or leased and at all times after, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which vehicles are used. Specifically, FCA's Limited Warranty formed the basis of the bargain that was reached. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

757. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including the instant Complaint, and by numerous individual letters and communications sent by Plaintiff and the other Class members before or within a reasonable amount of time after FCA issued the recall and the allegations of Class Vehicle defects became public.

758. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranty, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

759. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

760. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Iowa Subclass.

761. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

762. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

763. Thus, all Iowa Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

764. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

765. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

766. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

767. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE LOUISIANA UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES AND CONSUMER PROTECTION LAW
(LA. REV. STAT. § 51:1401, ET SEQ.)

768. Plaintiff Dustin Stewart ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Louisiana Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

769. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Louisiana Subclass.

770. FCA, Plaintiff, and the Louisiana Class are "persons" within the meaning of the La. Rev. Stat. § 51:1402(8).

771. Plaintiff and the Louisiana Subclass are "consumers" within the meaning of La. Rev. Stat. § 51:1402(1).

772. FCA engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of La. Rev. Stat. § 51:1402(10).

773. The Louisiana Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law (“Louisiana CPL”) makes unlawful “deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce.” La. Rev. Stat. § 51:1405(A). FCA participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Louisiana CPL.

774. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

775. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

776. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle’s occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

777. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Louisiana CPL.

778. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

779. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Louisiana Subclass.

780. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Louisiana CPL.

781. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

782. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

783. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

784. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Louisiana Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle

785. Plaintiff and the Louisiana Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. 786. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Louisiana CPL. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

787. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

788. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Louisiana CPL, Plaintiff and the Louisiana Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

789. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective

Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

790. Pursuant to La. Rev. Stat. § 51:1409, Plaintiff and the Louisiana Subclass seek to recover actual damages in an amount to be determined at trial; treble damages for FCA's knowing violations of the Louisiana CPL; an order enjoining FCA's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices; declaratory relief; attorneys' fees; and any other just and proper relief available under La. Rev. Stat. § 51:1409.

COUNT II

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY/ WARRANTY AGAINST REDHIBITORY DEFECTS (LA. CIV. CODE ART. 2520, 2524)

791. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

792. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Louisiana Subclass.

793. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

794. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the

J. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Maryland Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE MARYLAND CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT (MD. CODE COM. LAW § 13-101, ET SEQ.)

797. Plaintiffs Bruce Pollekoff and Charles Frank Schultz (“Plaintiffs,” for purposes of all Maryland Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

798. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Maryland Subclass.

799. FCA, Plaintiffs, and the Maryland Subclass are “persons” within the meaning of MD. CODE COM. LAW § 13-101(h).

800. The Maryland Consumer Protection Act (“Maryland CPA”) provides that a person may not engage in any unfair or deceptive trade practice in the sale of any consumer good. MD. COM. LAW CODE § 13-303. FCA participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Maryland CPA.

801. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

802. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

803. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle’s occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

804. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Maryland CPA.

805. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

806. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Maryland Subclass.

807. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Maryland CPA.

808. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

809. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

810. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

811. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Maryland Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

812. Plaintiffs and the Maryland Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Maryland CPA.

813. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Maryland CPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

814. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

815. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Maryland CPA, Plaintiffs and the Maryland Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

816. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective

Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

817. Pursuant to MD. CODE COM. LAW § 13-408, Plaintiff and the Maryland Subclass seek actual damages, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Maryland CPA.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

818. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

819. This claim is brought on behalf of the Maryland Subclass.

820. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

821. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

822. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

823. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

824. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

825. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

826. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

827. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

828. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (MD. CODE COM. LAW §2-313)

829. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

830. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Maryland Subclass.

831. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover "defect in materials or workmanship." FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year reduced, its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

832. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

833. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

834. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

835. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

836. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

837. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

838. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

839. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

840. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

841. Finally, due to FCA's breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiffs and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, revocation of acceptance of the goods, and for a return to Plaintiffs and the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned, and for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed.

842. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

843. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (MD. CODE COM. LAW § 2-314)

844. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

845. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Maryland Subclass.

846. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

847. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

848. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

849. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

850. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

851. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Maryland Subclass

852. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and inequity has resulted.

853. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

854. Thus, all Maryland Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

855. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

856. Plaintiffs and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

857. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

858. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

K. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass
COUNT I

DECEPTIVE ACTS OR PRACTICES PROHIBITED BY MASSACHUSETTS LAW
(MASS. GEN. LAWS CH. 93A, §1, ET SEQ.)

859. Plaintiffs Bernadine Hartt, Berardino D'Onofrio, Scott Michael Youngstrom Jr. and Todd Matchley ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all Massachusetts Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

860. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass.

861. Defendant is a "person" within the meaning of Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 93A, § 1(a).

862. Massachusetts law (the "Massachusetts Act") prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 93A, § 2. FCA participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Massachusetts Act.

863. FCA participated in misleading, false, or deceptive practices that violated the Massachusetts Act. By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the Defective Shifter was not safe, by marketing its Class Vehicles as safe and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Massachusetts Act.

864. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

865. FCA has known that the Defective Shifter was defectively designed and was not safe for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

866. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

867. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in unfair and deceptive business practices in violation of the Massachusetts Act.

868. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

869. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

870. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Iowa Subclass.

871. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Iowa CFA.

872. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

873. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

874. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

875. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Massachusetts Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

876. Plaintiffs and the Massachusetts Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Massachusetts Act.

877. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Iowa CFA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

878. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

879. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Massachusetts Act, Plaintiff and the Massachusetts Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

880. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

881. Pursuant to Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 93A, § 9, Plaintiffs and the Massachusetts Subclass seek monetary relief against FCA measured as the greater of (a) actual damages in an amount to be determined at trial and (b) statutory damages in the amount of $25 for each Plaintiff and each Massachusetts Subclass member. Because FCA's conduct was committed willfully and knowingly, Plaintiffs are entitled to recover, for each Plaintiff and each Massachusetts Subclass member, up to three times actual damages, but no less than two times actual damages.

882. Plaintiffs also seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair and/or deceptive acts or practices, punitive damages, and attorneys' fees costs, and any other just and proper relief available under the Massachusetts Act.

883. On July 8, 2016, certain Plaintiffs sent a letter complying with Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 93A, § 9(3). Because FCA failed to remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Massachusetts Subclass are entitled.

884. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

885. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

886. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass.

887. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

888. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

889. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

890. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

891. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

892. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

893. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

894. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

895. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (MASS. GEN. LAWS CH. 106, § 2-313)

896. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

897. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass.

898. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under MASS. GEN. Laws ch. 106, § 2-104(1) and a "seller" of motor vehicles under § 2-313(1).

899. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a "lessor" with respect to motor vehicles under MASS. GEN. Laws ch. 106, § 2A-103(1)(p), and § 2A-210.

900. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of MASS. GEN. Laws ch. 106, § 2-105(1) and § 2A-103(1)(h).

901. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

902. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

903. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

904. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

905. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

906. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

907. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

908. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

909. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

915. FCA was a merchant with respect to motor vehicles within the meaning of MASS. GEN. Laws ch. 106, § 2-104(1).

916. Under MASS. GEN. Laws ch. 106, § 2-314, a warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition was implied by law in the transactions when Plaintiffs purchased or leased their Class Vehicles from FCA. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. L. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Michigan Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE MICHIGAN CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(MICH. COMP. LAWS § 445.903, ET SEQ.)

928. Plaintiff Melvin Scott ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Michigan Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

929. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Michigan Subclass.

930. Plaintiff and Class members are “persons” within the meaning of MICH. COMP. LAWS § 445.902(1)(d).

931. The Michigan Consumer Protection Act (“Michigan CPA”) prohibits “[u]nfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts, or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce . . .” MICH. COMP. LAWS § 445.903(1). FCA engaged in unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive methods, acts or practices prohibited by the Michigan CPA, including: “(c) Representing that goods or services have ... characteristics . . . that they do not have . . .;” “(e) Representing that goods or services are of a particular standard . . . if they are of another;” “(i) Making false or misleading statements of fact concerning the reasons for, existence of, or amounts of price reductions;” “(s) Failing to reveal a material fact, the omission of which tends to mislead or deceive the consumer, and which fact could not reasonably be known by the consumer;” “(bb) Making a representation of fact or statement of fact material to the transaction such that a person reasonably believes the represented or suggested state of affairs to be other than it actually is;” and “(cc) Failing to reveal facts that are material to the transaction in light of representations of fact made in a positive manner.” MICH. COMP. LAWS § 445.903(1). By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the Defective Shifter was not safe, by marketing its Class Vehicles as safe and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Michigan CPA.

932. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein was unsafe, and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

933. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, and knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

934. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

935. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Michigan CPA.

936. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

937. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

938. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Michigan Subclass.

939. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Michigan CPA.

940. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

941. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

942. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

943. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Michigan Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

944. Plaintiff and the Michigan Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Michigan CPA.

945. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Michigan CPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

946. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

947. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Michigan CPA, Plaintiff and the Michigan Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

948. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

949. Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief to enjoin FCA from continuing its unfair and deceptive acts; monetary relief against FCA measured as the greater of (a) actual damages in an amount to be determined at trial and (b) statutory damages in the amount of $250 for Plaintiff and each Michigan Subclass member; reasonable attorneys' fees; and any other just and proper relief available under MICH. COMP. LAWS § 445.911.

950. Plaintiff also seeks punitive damages against FCA because it carried out despicable conduct with willful and conscious disregard of the rights and safety of others. FCA intentionally and willfully misrepresented the safety and reliability of the Class Vehicles, concealed material facts that only they knew, and repeatedly promised Plaintiffs and Michigan Subclass Members that all vehicles were safe—all to avoid the expense and public relations nightmare of correcting a noxious flaw in the Class Vehicles. FCA's unlawful conduct constitutes malice, oppression, and fraud warranting punitive damages.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

951. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

952. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Michigan Subclass.

953. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

954. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

955. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

956. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

957. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

958. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

959. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

960. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

961. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (MICH. COMP. LAWS ANN.440.2313 AND 440.2860)

962. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

963. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Michigan Subclass.

964. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under MICH. COMP. LAWS ANN. 440.2104(1) and a "seller" of motor vehicles under § 440.2313(1).

965. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a "lessor" with respect to motor vehicles under MICH. COMP. LAWS ANN. 440.2803(1)(p), and 440.2860.

966. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times "goods" within the meaning of MICH. COMP. LAWS ANN. 440.2105(1) and 440.2803(1)(h).

967. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year reduced, its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

968. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

969. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

970. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

971. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles’ materials and workmanship defects.

972. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

973. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

974. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

975. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

976. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

977. Finally, due to FCA's breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiff and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, revocation of acceptance of the goods, and for a return to Plaintiff and the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned, and for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed.

978. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

979. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (MICH. COMP. LAWS § 440.314)

980. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

981. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Michigan Subclass.

982. FCA was a merchant with respect to motor vehicles within the meaning of MICH. COMP. LAWS § 440.2314(1).

983. Under MICH. COMP. LAWS § 440.2314, a warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition was implied by law in the transactions when Plaintiff purchased or leased the Class Vehicles.

984. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

985. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

986. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

987. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

988. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Michigan Subclass.

989. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

990. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

991. Thus, all Michigan Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

992. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

993. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

994. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

995. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

M. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Minnesota Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF MINNESOTA PREVENTION OF CONSUMER FRAUD ACT
(MINN. STAT. § 325F.68, ET SEQ.)

996. Plaintiff Corinn Berken ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Minnesota Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

997. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

998. The Affected Vehicles constitute “merchandise” within the meaning of MINN. STAT. § 325F.68(2).

999. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act (“Minnesota CFA”) prohibits “[t]he act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged thereby . . .” MINN. STAT. § 325F.69(1).

1000. FCA’s actions as set forth herein occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

1001. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1002. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1003. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1004. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Minnesota CFA.

1007. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Minnesota CFA.

1008. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1009. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1010. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1011. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Minnesota Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1012. Plaintiff and the Minnesota Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Minnesota CFA.

1014. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1015. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Minnesota CFA, Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1016. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1017. Pursuant to MINN. STAT. § 8.31(3a), Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Class seek actual damages, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

1018. Plaintiffs also seek punitive damages under MINN. STAT. § 549.20(1)(a) given the clear and convincing evidence that FCA's acts show deliberate disregard for the rights or safety of others.

COUNT II

VIOLATION OF MINNESOTA UNIFORM DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT (MINN. STAT. § 325D.43-48, ET SEQ.)

1019. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1020. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

1021. The Minnesota Deceptive Trade Practices Act (“Minnesota DTPA”) prohibits deceptive trade practices, which occur when a person “(5) represents that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have or that a person has a sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation, or connection that the person does not have;” “(7) represents that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another;” and “(9) advertises goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised.” Minn. Stat. § 325D.44.

1022. FCA’s actions as set forth herein occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

1023. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1024. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1026. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Minnesota CFA.

1027. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA

brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1029. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Minnesota DTPA.

1030. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1031. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1032. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1033. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Minnesota Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1034. Plaintiff and the Minnesota Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Minnesota DTPA.

1035. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Minnesota DTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1036. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1037. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Minnesota DTPA, Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage

1038. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1039. Pursuant to Minn. Stat. § 8.31(3a) and 325D.45, Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Class seek actual damages, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota DTPA.

1040. Plaintiffs also seek punitive damages under Minn. Stat. § 549.20(1)(a) give the clear and convincing evidence that FCA's acts show deliberate disregard for the rights or safety of others.

COUNT III
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1041. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1042. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

1043. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1044. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1045. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1046. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1047. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1048. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1049. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1050. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1051. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages,

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (MINN. STAT. § 336.2-314)

1052. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1053. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

1054. FCA was a merchant with respect to motor vehicles within the meaning of Minn. Stat. § 336.2-104(1).

1055. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under Minn. Stat § 336.2A-103(1)(p) and § 336.2A-210.

1056. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Minn. Stat. § 336.2-105(1) and 336.2A-103(1)(h).

1057. Under Minn. Stat. § 336.2-314, a warranty that the Affected Vehicles were in merchantable condition was implied by law in the transactions when Plaintiffs purchased or leased their Affected Vehicles. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1058. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1059. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (MINN. STAT. § 336.2-313, AND § 336.2A-210)

1060. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1061. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

1062. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Minn. Stat § 336.2-104(1) and a “seller” of motor vehicles under § 336.2-313(1)

1063. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under Minn. Stat § 336.2A-103(1)(p) and § 336.2A-210.

1064. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Minn. Stat. § 336.2-105 and Minn. Stat § 336.2A-103(1)(h)

1065. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1066. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1067. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1068. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1069. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1070. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1071. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1072. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1074. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1075. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of “replacements or adjustments,” as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA’s fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA’s failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff’s and the other Class members’ remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1076. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

COUNT VI
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1078. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1079. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

1080. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1081. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1082. Thus, all Minnesota Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1083. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1084. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1085. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1086. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

N. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Missouri Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF MISSOURI MERCHANDISING PRACTICES ACT (MO. REV. STAT. § 407.010, ET SEQ.)

1087. Plaintiff Taylor Brooks ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Missouri Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1088. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Missouri Class.

1089. FCA, Plaintiffs and the Missouri Class are “persons” within the meaning of Mo. REV. STAT. § 407.010(5).

1090. FCA engaged in “trade” or “commerce” in the State of Missouri within the meaning of Mo. REV. STAT. § 407.010(7).

1091. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act (“Missouri MPA”) makes unlawful the “act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, misrepresentation, unfair practice, or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise.” Mo. REV. STAT. § 407.020.

1092. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1093. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1094. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1095. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Missouri MPA.

1096. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1097. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Missouri Subclass.

1098. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Missouri MPA.

1099. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1100. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1101. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1102. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Missouri Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1103. Plaintiff and the Missouri Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Missouri MPA.

1104. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Missouri MPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1105. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1106. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Missouri MPA, Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1107. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1108. FCA is liable to Plaintiffs and the Missouri Class for damages in amounts to be proven at trial, including attorneys' fees, costs, and punitive damages, as well as injunctive relief enjoining FCA's unfair and deceptive practices, and any other just and proper relief under Mo. REV. STAT. § 407.025.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1109. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1110. Plaintiff brings the Count on behalf of the Missouri Class.

1111. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1112. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1113. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1114. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1115. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1116. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1117. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1119. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (MO. REV. STAT. § 400.2-314)

1120. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1121. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Missouri Subclass.

1122. FCA was a merchant with respect to motor vehicles within the meaning of Mo. Rev. Stat. § 400.2-314(1).

1123. Under Mo. Rev. Stat. § 400.2-314, a warranty that the Affected Vehicles were in merchantable condition was implied by law in the transactions when Plaintiffs purchased or leased their Affected Vehicles. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1124. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1125. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (MO. STAT. § 400.2-313, AND § 400.2A-210)

1126. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1127. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Missouri Class.

1128. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Mo. Stat. § 400.2-104(1) and a “seller” of motor vehicles under § 400.2-313.

1129. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under Mo. Stat. § 400.2A-103(1)(p) and § 400.2A-210.

1130. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Mo. Stat. § 400.2-105(1) and Mo. Stat. § 400.2A-103(1)(h).

1131. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1132. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1133. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1134. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1135. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1136. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1137. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1138. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1139. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1140. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1141. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1142. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1143. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1144. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Missouri Subclass.

1145. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1146. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1147. Thus, all Missouri Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1148. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1149. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1150. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1151. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

O. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Nebraska Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF THE NEBRASKA CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT (NEB. REV. STAT. § 59-1601, ET SEQ.)

1152. Plaintiff Nina Walker (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Nebraska Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1153. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nebraska Subclass.

1154. FCA, Plaintiff, and the Nebraska Subclass Members are “person[s]” under the Nebraska Consumer Protection Act (“Nebraska CPA”), NEB. REV. STAT. § 59-1601(1).

1155. FCA’s actions as set forth herein occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce as defined under NEB. REV. STAT. § 59-1601(2).

1156. The Nebraska CPA prohibits “unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce.” NEB. REV. STAT. § 59-1602. The conduct FCA as set forth herein constitutes unfair or deceptive acts or practices.

1157. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1158. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1160. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Nebraska CPA.

1161. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA

brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1162. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with the intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Nebraska Subclass.

1163. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Nebraska CPA.

1165. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1166. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1167. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Nebraska Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1168. Plaintiff and the Nebraska Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Nebraska CPA.

1169. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Nebraska CPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1170. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1172. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Nebraska CPA, Plaintiffs and the Nebraska Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

COUNT II
FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

1173. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1174. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nebraska Subclass.

Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1176. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1177. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1178. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1179. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1180. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1181. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1182. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1183. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

1184. Because FCA's conduct caused injury to Nebraska Subclass Members' property through violations of the Nebraska CPA, the Nebraska Subclass seeks recovery of actual damages, as well as enhanced damages up to $1,000, an order enjoining FCA's unfair or deceptive acts and practices, costs of Court, reasonable attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under NEB. REV. STAT. § 59-1609.

COUNT III

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (NEB. REV. STAT. NEB. § 2-314)

1185. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1186. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nebraska Subclass.

1187. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles within the meaning of Neb. Rev. Stat § 2-104(1).

1188. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1189. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1190. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (NEB. REV. ST. U.C.C. 2-313 AND 2A-210)

1191. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1192. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nebraska Subclass.

1193. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under U.C.C. 2-104(1) and a “seller” of motor vehicles under 2-313(1)

1194. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under U.C.C. 2A-103(1)(p), and 2A-210.

1195. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of U.C.C. 2-105(1) and 2A-103(1)(h).

1196. 1197. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1198. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1199. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1200. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1201. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1202. 1207. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

P. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Nevada Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE NEVADA DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(NEV. REV. STAT. § 598.0903, ET SEQ.)

1217. Plaintiff Eliam M. Marrero Bernal (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Nevada Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1218. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

1219. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act (“Nevada DTPA”), NEV. REV. STAT. § 598.0903, et seq., prohibits deceptive trade practices. NEV. REV. STAT. § 598.0915 provides that a person engages in a “deceptive trade practice” if, in the course of business or occupation, the person: “5. Knowingly makes a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith”; “7. Represents that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model”; “9. Advertises goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised”; or “15. Knowingly makes any other false representation in a transaction.”

1220. FCA engaged in deceptive trade practices that violated the Nevada DTPA, including: knowingly representing that Class Vehicles have uses and benefits which they do not have; representing that Class Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; advertising Class Vehicles with the intent not to sell or lease them as advertised; representing that the subject of a transaction involving Class Vehicles has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not; and knowingly making other false representations in a transaction.

1221. FCA's actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

1222. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein, and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1223. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1224. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1226. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

1227. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA

brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1228. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with the intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Nevada Subclass.

1229. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Nevada DTPA.

1230. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1231. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiff and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1232. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1233. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Nevada Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1234. Plaintiff and the Nevada Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Nevada DTPA.

1235. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Nevada DTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1236. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1237. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Nevada DTPA, Plaintiff and the Nevada Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1238. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1239. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the Nevada Subclass seek their actual damages, punitive damages, an order enjoining FCA's deceptive acts or practices, costs of Court, attorney's fees, and all other appropriate and available remedies under the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act. NEV. REV. STAT. § 41.600.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1240. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1241. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

1242. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1243. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1244. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1245. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1246. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1247. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1248. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1249. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1250. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (NEV. REV. STAT. § 104.2313 AND 104A.2210)

1251. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1252. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

1253. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under NEV. REV. STAT. § 104.2104(1) and a “seller” of motor vehicles under § 104.2313(1).

1254. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under NEV. REV. STAT. § 104A.2103(1)(p), and § 104A.2210.

1255. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of NEV. REV. STAT. § 104.2105(1) and NEV. REV. STAT. § 104A.2103(1)(h).

1256. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1257. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1258. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1259. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1260. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1261. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1262. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1263. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1264. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1265. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1266. Finally, due to FCA's breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiffs and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, revocation of acceptance of the goods, and the return to Plaintiff and the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned, and for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed.

1267. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (NEV. REV. STAT. § 104.2314)

1269. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1270. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

1271. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1273. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1274. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1275. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

1276. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1278. Thus, all Nevada Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1279. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1280. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1281. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1282. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

Q. Claims Brought on Behalf of the New Jersey Subclass
COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE NEW JERSEY CONSUMER FRAUD ACT
(N.J. STAT. ANN. §§ 56:8-1, ET SEQ.)

1283. Plaintiff Clare Colrick ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all New Jersey Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1284. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of herself and the New Jersey Subclass.

1285. FCA, Plaintiff, and the Nebraska Subclass Members are "person[s]" under the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, N.J. Stat. § 56:8-1(d).

1286. FCA's engaged in "sales" of "merchandise" within the meaning of N.J. Stat § 56:8-1(c), (e). FCA's actions as set forth herein occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

1287. The New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, N.J. Stat. Ann. §§ 56:8-1, et seq. (“New Jersey CFA”), prohibits unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce. The conduct FCA as set forth herein constitutes unfair or deceptive acts or practices.

1288. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1289. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1290. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle’s occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1291. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the New Jersey CFA.

1292. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1293. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the New Jersey Subclass.

1294. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the New Jersey CFA.

1296. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1297. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1299. Plaintiff and the New Jersey Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the New Jersey CFA.

1300. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the New Jersey CFA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1301. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1302. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1303. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the New Jersey CFA, Plaintiffs and the New Jersey Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1304. Plaintiff and the other Class members were injured as a result of FCA's conduct in that Plaintiff and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Class Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of FCA's misrepresentations and omissions.

1305. Defendant had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the New Jersey CFA in the course of its business.

1306. Defendant's violations present a continuing risk to the Plaintiffs as well as the general public. Defendant's unlawful acts and practices complained herein affect the public interest.

1307. As a result of the foregoing wrongful conduct of FCA, Plaintiffs and the New Jersey Class have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, and seek all just and proper remedies, including but not limited to, actual and statutory damages, treble damages, and order enjoining FCA's deceptive and unfair conduct, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees under N.J. Stat. § 56:8-19, and all other just and appropriate relief.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1308. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1309. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the New Jersey Subclass.

1310. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1311. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1312. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1314. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1315. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1316. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1317. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1318. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages,

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (N.J. STAT. ANN. § 12A:2-313 AND 12A:2A-210)

1319. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1320. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the New Jersey Subclass.

1321. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under N.J. Stat. Ann. § 12A:2-104 and a “seller” of motor vehicles under § 12A:2-313.

1322. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under NJ. Stat. Ann. § 12A:2A-103(1)(p), and § 12A:2A-210.

1323. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of N.J. Stat. Ann. § 12A:2-104(1) and § 12A:2A-103(1)(h).

1324. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1325. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1327. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1328. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1329. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1330. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1331. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1332. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1333. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1334. Finally, due to FCA's breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiff and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, revocation of acceptance of the goods, and for the return to Plaintiffs and the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned, and for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed.

1335. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1336. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (N.J. STAT. ANN. § 12-A:2-314)

1337. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1338. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the New Jersey Subclass.

1339. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1340. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1341. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1343. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1344. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the New Jersey Subclass.

1345. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1346. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective

Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1347. Thus, all New Jersey Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1348. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1350. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1351. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

R. Claims Brought on Behalf of the New York Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF NEW YORK GENERAL BUSINESS LAW § 349
(N.Y. GEN. BUS. LAW § 349)

1352. Plaintiffs John Lynd, Janella Mack, and Michael Cruz ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all New York Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1353. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

1354. New York's General Business Law § 349 makes unlawful "[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce."

1355. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk of the faulty and defective Defective Shifters in Class Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, FCA engaged in unfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices as defined in N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, including engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

1356. FCA's actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

1357. Because FCA's deception takes place in the context of automobile safety, its deception affects the public interest. Further, FCA's unlawful conduct constitutes unfair acts or practices that have the capacity to deceive consumers, and that have a broad impact on consumers at large.

1358. FCA's conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

1359. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were injured as a result of FCA's conduct in that Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Defective Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of FCA's misrepresentations and omissions.

COUNT II

VIOLATIONS OF NEW YORK GENERAL BUSINESS LAW § 350 (N.Y. GEN. BUS. LAW § 350)

1360. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1361. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

1362. New York's General Business Law § 350 makes unlawful "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce[.]" False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity ... if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of ... representations [made] with respect to the commodity...." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 350-a.

1363. FCA caused to be made or disseminated through New York, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should have been known to FCA, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members.

1364. FCA has violated N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 350 because the omissions regarding the dangerous risk of the faulty and defective Defective Shifter in Class Vehicles as described above, were material and likely to deceive a reasonable consumer.

1365. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have suffered injury, including the loss of money or property, as a result of FCA's false advertising. In purchasing or leasing their Class Vehicles, Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on the representations and/or omissions of FCA with respect to the safety, quality, functionality, and reliability of the Class Vehicles. FCA's representations turned out to be untrue because the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter is monostable, yet does not have a safety override that automatically puts the car in "park" if the driver's door is opened and the foot brake's released. Had Plaintiffs and the other Class members known this, they would not have purchased or leased their Class Vehicles and/or paid as much for them.

1366. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of the bargain for their Class Vehicles, which have also suffered diminution in value.

1367. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1368. Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be necessary to enjoin FCA from continuing its unfair, unlawful and/or deceptive practices. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are also entitled to recover their actual damages or $500, whichever is greater. Because FCA acted willfully or knowingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to recover three times actual damages, up to $10,000.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (N.Y. U.C.C. § 2-313)

1369. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1370. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

1371. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1372. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1373. FCA's Limited Warranty formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and the other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with a defective Z Shifter from FCA.

1374. FCA breached the express warranty to repair and adjust to correct defects in materials and workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1375. Furthermore, the limited warranty of repair and/or adjustments to defective parts, fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1376. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty of repair or adjustments to parts defective in materials or workmanship, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

1377. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time that FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's Limited Warranty and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1378. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacement or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein, and due to its failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, and any limitation on Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

1379. Finally, due to FCA's breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiffs and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, as set forth in N.Y. U.C.C. § 2-608, for a revocation of acceptance of the goods, and for a return to Plaintiffs and to the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned for such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed under N.Y. U.C.C. §§ 2-711 and 2-608.

1380. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint.

1381. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranty, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1382. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1383. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

1384. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1385. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, and would not perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1386. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1387. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1388. FCA had a duty to disclose that these Class Vehicles were defective, unsafe, and unreliable in that the Class Vehicles had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1389. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1390. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. FCA knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that the Defective Shifter installed in the Class Vehicles is defective and exposes drivers, occupants and members of the public to safety risks. FCA intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Class Vehicles.

1391. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifter – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1392. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1394. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1395. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

1396. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and inequity has resulted.

1397. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective

Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1398. Thus, all New York Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1399. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1400. Plaintiffs and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1401. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1402. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

S. Claims Brought on Behalf of the North Carolina Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE NORTH CAROLINA UNFAIR AND DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(N.C. GEN. STAT. §§ 75-1.1, ET SEQ.)

1403. Plaintiffs Andre Barfield, Jacob Gunnells, and Brittani Sheppard ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all North Carolina Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1404. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Subclass.

1405. North Carolina's Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act, N.C. GEN. STAT. §§ 75-1.1, et seq. ("NCUDTPA"), prohibits a person from engaging in "[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce[.]" The NCUDTPA provides a private right of action for any person injured “by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of” the NCUDTPA. N.C. GEN. STAT. § 75-16.

1406. FCA’s acts and practices complained of herein were performed in the course of FCA’s trade or business and thus occurred in or affected “commerce,” as defined in N.C. GEN. STAT. § 75-1.1(b).

1407. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed that the defective Defective Shifter discussed herein was unsafe and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Accordingly, FCA engaged in unfair and deceptive trade practices, including representing that Class Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Class Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Class Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

1408. FCA’s conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

1409. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1410. FCA acted with willful and conscious disregard of the rights and safety of others, subjecting Plaintiffs and the other Class members to cruel and unjust hardship as a result, such that an award of punitive damages is appropriate.

1411. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were injured as a result of FCA's conduct in that Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Class Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of FCA's misrepresentations and omissions.

1412. Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek treble damages pursuant to N.C. GEN. STAT. § 75-16, and an award of attorneys' fees pursuant to N.C. GEN. STAT. § 75-16.1.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1413. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1414. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Subclass.

Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1416. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, and would not perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1417. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1418. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1419. FCA had a duty to disclose that these Class Vehicles were defective, unsafe, and unreliable in that that the Class Vehicles had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1420. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1421. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. FCA knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that the Defective Shifter installed in the Class Vehicles is defective and exposes drivers, occupants and members of the public to safety risks. FCA intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Class Vehicles.

1422. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifter – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1423. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1424. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (N.C. GEN. STAT. § 25-2-313 AND § 25-2A-210)

1425. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1426. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Subclass.

1427. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under N.C. GEN. STAT. § 25-2-104(1) and a “seller” of motor vehicles under § 25-2-313(1).

1428. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under N.C. GEN. STAT. § 25-2A-103(1)(p) and § 25-2A-210.

1429. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of N.C. GEN. STAT. § 25-2-105(1) and N.C. GEN. STAT. § 25-2A-103(1)(h).

1430. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1431. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1432. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1433. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1434. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1435. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1436. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1437. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1438. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1439. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1440. Finally, due to FCA's breach of warranty as set forth herein, Plaintiffs and the other Class members assert as an additional and/or alternative remedy, revocation of acceptance of the goods, the return to Plaintiffs and the other Class members of the purchase price of all Class Vehicles currently owned, and such other incidental and consequential damages as allowed.

1441. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1442. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (N.C. GEN. STAT. § 25-2-314)

1443. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1444. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Subclass.

1445. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1446. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1447. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1448. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1449. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1450. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Subclass.

1451. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and inequity has resulted.

1452. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective

Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1453. Thus, all North Carolina Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1454. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1455. Plaintiffs and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1456. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1457. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

T. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Ohio Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE CONSUMER SALES PRACTICES ACT
(OHIO REV. CODE § 1345.01, ET SEQ.)

1458. Plaintiffs Danielle and Joby Hackett ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all Ohio Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1459. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

1460. Plaintiffs and the other Ohio Subclass members are "consumers" as defined by the Ohio Consumer Sales Practices Act, OHIO REV. CODE § 1345.01 ("OCSPA"). FCA is a "supplier" as defined by the OCSPA. Plaintiffs' and the other Ohio Subclass members' purchases or leases of the Class Vehicles were "consumer transactions" as defined by the OCSPA.

1461. By willfully failing to disclose and actively concealing the defective Defective Shifter, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the OCSPA, including (1) representing that the Class Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have, (2) representing that the Class Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not, (3) advertising the Class Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised, and (4) engaging in acts or practices which are otherwise unfair, misleading, false, or deceptive to the consumer.

1462. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein, and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1463. FCA knew it had installed a defective Defective Shifter and knew that the Defective Shifter did not operate safely, as advertised. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1464. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1465. By failing to disclose that the defective Defective Shifter did not operate safely and did not include a safety override to prevent roll-away incidents, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the OCSPA.

1466. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicle with Defective Shifter, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1467. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Ohio Subclass.

1468. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the OCSPA.

1469. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1470. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1471. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicle with Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1472. The Ohio Attorney General has made available for public inspection prior state court decisions which have held that the acts and omissions of FCA in this Complaint, including, but not limited to, the failure to honor both implied warranties and express warranties, the making and distribution of false, deceptive, and/or misleading representations, and the concealment and/or non-disclosure of a dangerous defect, constitute deceptive sales practices in violation of the OCSPA. These cases include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Mason v. Mercedes Benz USA, LLC (OPIF #10002382);
- b. State ex rel. Betty D. Montgomery v. Volkswagen Motor Co. (OPIF #10002123);
- c. State ex rel. Betty D. Montgomery v. Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc. (OPIF #10002025);
- d. Bellinger v. Hewlett-Packard Co., No. 20744, 2002 Ohio App. LEXIS 1573 (Ohio Ct. App. Apr. 10, 2002) (OPIF #10002077);
- e. Borrer v. MarineMax of Ohio, No. OT-06-010, 2007 Ohio App. LEXIS 525 (Ohio Ct. App. Feb. 9, 2007) (OPIF #10002388);
- f. State ex rel. Jim Petro v. Craftmatic Organization, Inc. (OPIF #10002347);
- g. Mark J. Craw Volkswagen, et al. v. Joseph Airport Toyota, Inc. (OPIF #10001586);
- h. State ex rel. William J. Brown v. Harold Lyons, et al. (OPIF #10000304);
- i. Brinkman v. Mazda Motor of America, Inc. (OPIF #10001427);
- j. Khoury v. Don Lewis (OPIF #100001995);
- k. Mosley v. Performance Mitsubishi aka Automanage (OPIF #10001326);
- l. Walls v. Harry Williams dba Butch's Auto Sales (OPIF #10001524); and

m. Brown v. Spears (OPIF #10000403).

1473. As a result of its violations of the OCSPA, as detailed above, FCA caused actual damage to Plaintiffs and, if not stopped, will continue to harm Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs currently own or lease, or within the class period have owned or leased, a Class Vehicle that is defective. Defects associated with the Defective Shifter have caused the value of the Class Vehicles to decrease.

1474. Plaintiffs and the Class sustained damages as a result of FCA's unlawful acts and are therefore entitled to damages and other relief as provided under the OCSPA.

1475. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1476. Plaintiffs also seek court costs and attorneys' fees as a result of FCA's violations of the OCSPA, as provided in OHIO REV. CODE § 1345.09.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1477. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1478. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

1479. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1480. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, and would not perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1481. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1482. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1483. FCA had a duty to disclose that these Class Vehicles were defective, unsafe, and unreliable in that that the Class Vehicles had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1484. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1485. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. FCA knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that the Defective Shifter installed in the Class Vehicles is defective and exposes drivers, occupants and members of the public to safety risks. FCA intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Class Vehicles.

1486. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifter – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1487. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (OHIO REV. CODE § 1302.26, ET SEQ.) (U.C.C. § 2-313)

1489. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1490. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

1491. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1492. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1493. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of its Class Vehicles.

1494. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defective Defective Shifter system from FCA.

1495. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defective Defective Shifter free of charge.

1496. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1497. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1498. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1499. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

1500. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1501. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

1502. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including complaints to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1503. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (OHIO REV. CODE § 1302.27)(U.C.C. § 2-314))

1504. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1505. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

1506. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1507. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter system was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested and does not include a safety override to prevent roll-away incidents.

1508. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1509. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1510. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1511. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

1512. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and the Class and inequity has resulted.

1513. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1514. Thus, all Ohio Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1515. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1516. Plaintiffs were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1517. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1518. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

U. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Oklahoma Subclass

OKLAHOMA COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF OKLAHOMA CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT (OKLA. STAT. TIT. 15 § 751, ET SEQ.)

1519. Plaintiff Carol Clark ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Oklahoma Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1520. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oklahoma Subclass.

1521. The Oklahoma Consumer Protection Act ("Oklahoma CPA") prohibits, in the course of business: "mak[ing] a false or misleading representation, knowingly or with reason to know, as to the characteristics ..., uses, [or] benefits, of the subject of a consumer transaction," or making a false representation, "knowingly or with reason to know, that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, style or model, if it is of another or "[a]dvertis[ing], knowingly or with reason to know, the subject of a consumer transaction with intent not to sell it as advertised;" and otherwise committing "an unfair or deceptive trade practice." Okla. Stat. Tit. 15 § 753.

1522. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1523. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1524. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1525. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Oklahoma CPA.

1526. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1527. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Oklahoma Subclass.

1528. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Oklahoma CPA.

1529. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1530. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or

- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1531. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1532. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Oklahoma Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1533. Plaintiff and the Oklahoma Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Oklahoma CPA.

1535. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1536. Defendants' unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and Oklahoma Class members, about safety and reliability of the Deceptive Shifter Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of integrity at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1537. Plaintiff and Oklahoma Class members suffered ascertainable loss and actual damages as a direct and proximate result of FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Plaintiff and the Oklahoma Class members who purchased or leased the Class Vehicles would not have purchased or leased them at all and/or—if the Vehicles' true nature had been disclosed and mitigated—would have paid significantly less for them. Plaintiffs also suffered diminished value of their vehicles, as well as lost or diminished use.

1538. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1539. Defendants had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Oklahoma CPA in the course of its business.

1540. Defendants' violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Defendants' unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1541. Pursuant to Okla. Stat. Tit. 15 § 761.1, Plaintiffs and the Oklahoma Class seek an order enjoining FCA's unfair and/or deceptive acts or practices, damages, punitive damages, and attorneys' fees, costs, and any other just and proper relief available under the Oklahoma CPA.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1542. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1543. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oklahoma Subclass.

1544. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1545. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1546. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1548. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1549. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1550. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1552. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (OKLA. STAT. TIT. 12A §§ 2-313 AND 2A-210)

1553. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1554. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oklahoma Subclass.

1555. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Okla. Stat. Tit. 12A §§ 2-104(1) and 2-1103(3), and “sellers” of motor vehicles under § 2A-103(1)(t).

1556. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” of motor vehicles under Okla. Stat. Tit. 12A § 2A-103(1)(p).

1557. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Okla. Stat. Tit. 12A §§ 2-105(1), and 2A-103(1)(h).

1558. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1559. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1560. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1561. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1562. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1563. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1564. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1565. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1566. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1567. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1568. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1569. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (OKLA. STAT. TIT. 12A §§ 2-314 AND 2A-212)

1570. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1571. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oklahoma Subclass.

1572. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1574. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1576. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1577. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oklahoma Subclass.

1578. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1579. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1580. Thus, all Oklahoma Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1581. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1582. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1583. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1584. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

V. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Oregon Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE OREGON UNLAWFUL TRADE PRACTICES ACT (OR. REV. STAT. §§ 646.605, ET SEQ.)

1585. Plaintiff Todd Fisher (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Oregon Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1586. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oregon Subclass.

1587. FCA is a person within the meaning of OR. REV. STAT. § 646.605(4)

1588. The Class Vehicles at issue are “goods” obtained primarily for personal family or household purposes within the meaning of OR. REV. STAT. § 646.605(6).

1589. The Oregon Unfair Trade Practices Act (“Oregon UTPA”) prohibits a person from, in the course of the person’s business, doing any of the following: “(e) Represent[ing] that … goods … have … characteristics … uses, benefits, … or qualities that they do not have; (g) Represent[ing] that … goods … are of a particular standard [or] quality … if they are of another; (i) Advertis[ing] … goods or services with intent not to provide them as advertised;” and “(u) engag[ing] in any other unfair or deceptive conduct in trade or commerce.” OR. REV. STAT. § 646.608(1).

1590. FCA engaged in unlawful trade practices, including representing that Class Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Class Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Class Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and engaging in other unfair or deceptive acts.

1591. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

1592. FCA's actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

1593. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter and knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1594. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1595. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Oregon UTPA.

1596. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

1597. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1598. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Oregon Subclass.

1599. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Oregon UTPA.

1600. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1601. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiff and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1602. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective

Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1603. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Oregon Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1604. Plaintiff and the Oregon Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Oregon UTPA.

1605. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Oregon UTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1606. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiff as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1607. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Oregon UTPA, Plaintiff and the Oregon Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1608. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1609. Plaintiff and the Oregon Subclass are entitled to recover the greater of actual damages or $200 pursuant to OR. REV. STAT. § 646.638(1). Plaintiff and the Oregon Subclass are also entitled to punitive damages because FCA engaged in conduct amounting to a particularly aggravated, deliberate disregard of the rights of others.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1610. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1611. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oregon Subclass.

1612. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1613. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, and would not perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1614. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1615. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1616. FCA had a duty to disclose that these Class Vehicles were defective, unsafe, and unreliable in that that the Class Vehicles had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1617. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1618. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. FCA knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that the Defective Shifter installed in the Class Vehicles is defective and exposes drivers, occupants and members of the public to safety risks. FCA intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Class Vehicles.

1620. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1621. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (OR. REV. STAT. §§ 72.3130 AND § 72A.2100)

1622. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1623. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oregon Subclass.

1624. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a “lessor” with respect to motor vehicles under OR. REV. STAT. § 72A.1030(1)(p) and § 72A.2100.

1625. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of OR. REV. STAT. § 72.1050(1) and OR. REV. STAT. § 72A.1030(1)(h).

1626. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1627. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of its Class Vehicles.

1628. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defective Defective Shifter system from FCA.

1629. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defective Defective Shifter free of charge.

1630. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1631. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1632. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole and because

FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1633. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1634. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1635. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1636. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including complaints to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1637. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (OR. REV. STAT. § 72.3140)

1638. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1639. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oregon Subclass.

1640. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1642. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1643. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1644. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1645. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Oregon Subclass.

1646. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and the Class and inequity has resulted.

1647. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1648. Thus, all Oregon Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1649. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1650. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1651. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1652. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

W. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Pennsylvania Class
COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES
AND CONSUMER PROTECTION LAW
(73 PA. CONS. STAT. § 201-1, ET SEQ.)

1654. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Pennsylvania Subclass.

1655. Plaintiffs purchased or leased their Class Vehicles primarily for personal, family or household purposes within the meaning of 73 PA. CONS. STAT. § 201-9.2.

1656. All of the acts complained of herein were perpetrated by FCA in the course of trade or commerce within the meaning of 73 PA. CONS. STAT. § 201-2(3).

1657. The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Law ("Pennsylvania CPL") prohibits unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including: (i) "Representing that goods or services have ... characteristics, Benefits or qualities that they do not have;” (ii) “Representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality or grade … if they are of another;:” (iii) “Advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised;” and (iv) “Engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or misunderstanding.” 73 PA. CONS. STAT. § 201-2(4).

1658. FCA engaged in unlawful trade practices including representing that Class Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Class Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Class Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and engaging in any other fraudulent or deceptive conduct which creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.

1659. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1660. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1661. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1662. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Pennsylvania CPL.

1663. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

1664. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1665. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Pennsylvania Subclass.

1666. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Pennsylvania CPL.

1667. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1668. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1669. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1670. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Pennsylvania Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1671. Plaintiffs and the Pennsylvania Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL.

1672. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Pennsylvania CPL. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1673. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1674. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Pennsylvania CPL, Plaintiffs and the Pennsylvania Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1675. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1676. FCA is liable to Plaintiffs and the Pennsylvania Subclass for treble their actual damages or $100, whichever is greater, and attorneys' fees and costs. 73 PA. CONS. STAT. § 201-9.2(a). Plaintiffs and the Pennsylvania Class are also entitled to an award of punitive damages given that Volkswagen's conduct was malicious, wanton, willful, oppressive, or exhibited a reckless indifference to the rights of others.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1677. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1678. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Pennsylvania Subclass.

1679. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1680. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, and would not perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1681. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1682. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1683. FCA had a duty to disclose that these Class Vehicles were defective, unsafe, and unreliable in that that the Class Vehicles had a design defect which can allow the car to roll away from its parked position, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1684. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1685. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. FCA knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that the Defective Shifter installed in the Class Vehicles is defective and exposes drivers, occupants and members of the public to safety risks. FCA intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Class Vehicles.

1686. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifter – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1687. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1688. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (13 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 2313)

1689. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1690. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Pennsylvania Subclass.

1691. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under 13 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 2104 and a "seller" of motor vehicles under 13 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 2313.

1692. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times a "lessor" with respect to motor vehicles under 13 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 2A103 and 2A210.

1693. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times "goods" within the meaning of 13 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 2105 and § 2A103.

1694. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1695. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of its Class Vehicles.

1696. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defective Defective Shifter system from FCA.

1697. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defective Defective Shifter free of charge.

1698. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA.

FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1699. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1700. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1701. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

1702. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1703. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of “replacements or adjustments,” as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA’s fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA’s failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs’ and the other Class members’ remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

1704. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including complaints to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1705. As a direct and proximate result of FCA’s breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (13 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 2314)

1706. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1707. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Pennsylvania Subclass.

1708. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1709. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1710. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1711. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1712. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1713. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Pennsylvania Subclass.

1714. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and the Class and inequity has resulted.

1715. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1716. Thus, all Pennsylvania Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1717. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1718. Plaintiffs were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1719. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1720. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

X. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Texas Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT (TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE §§ 17.41, ET SEQ.)

1721. Plaintiffs Cris-Ann Craig, Kelli Foreman, Krystal Dial, Ashley Gillipsie, Robert F. Hyatt IV, Cameron Phelps, and Jay Waggoner ("Plaintiffs," for purposes of all Texas Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1722. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Texas Subclass.

1723. Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass are individuals, partnerships or corporations with assets of less than $25 million (or are controller by corporations or entities with less than $25 million in assets), see Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 17.41, and are therefore “consumers” pursuant to Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 17.45(4).

1724. FCA is a “person” within the meaning of TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 17.45(3).

1725. FCA’s conduct complained of herein affected “trade,” “commerce” or “consumer transactions” within the meaning of TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 17.46(A).

1726. The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act (“Texas DTPA”) prohibits “false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce,” TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 17.46(a), and an “unconscionable action or course of action,” which means “an act or practice which, to a consumer’s detriment, takes advantage of the lack of knowledge, ability, experience, or capacity of the consumer to a grossly unfair degree.” TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE §§ 17.45(5) and 17.50(a)(3).

1727. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1728. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1729. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1730. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Texas DTPA.

1731. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1732. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass.

1733. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Texas DTPA.

1734. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1735. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1736. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1737. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1738. Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Texas DTPA.

1739. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Texas DTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1740. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1741. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Texas DTPA, Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1742. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1743. Pursuant to TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 17.50, Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass seek monetary relief against FCA measured as actual damages in an amount to be determined at trial, multiple damages for knowing and intentional violations, pursuant to § 17.50(b)(1), punitive damages, and attorneys' fees, costs, and any other just and proper relief available under the Texas DTPA.

1744. On July 8, 2016, certain Plaintiffs sent a letter complying with TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 17.505(a). Because FCA failed to remedy its unlawful conduct within the requisite time period, Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief to which Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass are entitled.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1745. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1746. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Texas Subclass.

1747. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1748. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1749. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1750. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1751. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1752. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1753. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1754. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1755. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III
BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY
(TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 2.313)

1756. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1757. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Texas Subclass.

1758. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 2.104(a) and a "seller" of motor vehicles under § 2.313(a).

1759. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times "goods" within the meaning of TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE § 2.105(a) and § 2.313.

1760. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover "defect in materials or workmanship." FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class

Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1761. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of its Class Vehicles.

1762. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defective Defective Shifter system from FCA.

1763. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defective Defective Shifter free of charge.

1764. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1765. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1766. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole, and because

FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1767. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

1768. 1770. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including complaints to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1771. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

1774. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1778. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1779. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Texas Subclass.

1780. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and the Class and inequity has resulted.

Y. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Utah Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF UTAH CONSUMER SALES PRACTICES ACT
(UTAH CODE ANN. § 13-11-1, ET SEQ.)

1787. Plaintiff Trevor Marble ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Utah Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1788. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Utah Subclass.

1789. The Utah CSPA makes unlawful any "deceptive act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" under UTAH CODE ANN. § 13-11-4. Specifically, "a supplier commits a deceptive act or practice if the supplier knowingly or intentionally: (a) indicates that the subject of a consumer transaction has sponsorship, approval, performance characteristics, accessories, uses, or benefits, if it has not" or "(b) indicates that the subject of a consumer transaction is of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model, if it is not." UTAH CODE ANN. § 13-11-4. "An unconscionable act or practice by a supplier in connection with a consumer transaction" also violates the Utah CSPA. UTAH CODE ANN. § 13-11-5.

1790. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1791. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1792. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1793. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Utah CSPA.

1794. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1795. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Utah Subclass.

1796. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Utah CSPA.

1797. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1798. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;

- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1799. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1800. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Utah Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1801. Plaintiff and the Utah Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Utah CSPA.

1802. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Utah CSPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1803. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1804. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Utah CSPA, Plaintiffs and the Utah Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1805. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1806. Pursuant to UTAH CODE ANN. § 13-11-4, Plaintiffs and the Utah Class seek monetary relief against Volkswagen measured as the greater of (a) actual damages in an amount to be determined at trial and (b) statutory damages in the amount of $2,000 for each Plaintiff and each Utah Class member, reasonable attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Utah CSPA.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1807. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1808. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Utah Subclass.

1809. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1810. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1811. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1812. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1813. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1814. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1815. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1816. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1817. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (UTAH CODE §§ 70A-2-313 AND 70A-2A-210)

1818. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1819. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Utah Subclass.

1820. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1821. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover "defect in materials or workmanship." FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1822. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1823. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1824. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1825. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1826. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1827. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1828. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1829. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1830. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1831. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1832. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (UTAH CODE §§ 70A-2-314 AND 70A-2A-212)

1833. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1834. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Utah Subclass.

1835. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1836. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1837. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1838. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT VI
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1839. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

1840. Plaintiff brings this claim on behalf of the Utah Subclass.

1841. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1842. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1843. Thus, all Utah Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1844. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1845. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1846. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1847. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

Z. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Virginia Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE VIRGINIA CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(VA. CODE ANN. §§ 59.1-196, ET SEQ.)

1848. Plaintiff Gerrett Beaudin (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Virginia Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1849. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Virginia Subclass.

1850. The Virginia Consumer Protection Act (“Virginia CPA”) prohibits “... (5) misrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits; (6) misrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model; ... (8) advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised ...; [and] (14) using any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction[.]” VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-200(A).

1851. Defendants are each a “person” as defined by VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-198. The transactions between Plaintiff and the other Class members on one hand and FCA on the other, leading to the purchase or lease of the Affected Vehicles by Plaintiff and the other Class members, are “consumer transactions” as defined by

VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-198, because the Affected Vehicles were purchased or leased primarily for personal, family or household purposes.

1852. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defeat device in Affected Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, FCA engaged in acts and practices violating VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-200(A), including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

1853. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1854. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1855. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1856. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Virginia CPA.

1857. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1858. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Virginia Subclass.

1859. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Virginia CPA.

1860. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1861. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1862. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1863. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Virginia Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1864. Plaintiff and the Virginia Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Virginia CPA.

1865. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Virginia CPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1866. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1867. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Virginia CPA, Plaintiffs and the Virginia Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1868. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were injured as a result of FCA's conduct in that Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Affected Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of FCA's misrepresentations and omissions.

1869. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1870. FCA actively and willfully concealed and/or suppressed the material facts regarding the defective ZF shifter with the intent to deceive and mislead Plaintiffs and the other Class members and to induce Plaintiffs and the other Class members to purchase or lease Affected Vehicles at a higher price, which did not match the Affected Vehicles' true value. Plaintiffs and the other Class members therefore seek treble damages.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1871. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1872. Plaintiff brings this claim on behalf of the Virginia Subclass.

1873. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1874. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1875. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1876. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1877. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1878. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1879. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1880. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1881. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (VA. CODE ANN. § 8.2-314)

1882. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1883. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Virginia Subclass.

1884. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1885. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1886. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1887. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY
(VA. CODE § 8.2-313)

1888. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1889. This claim is brought on behalf the Virginia Subclass.

1890. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Va. Code § 8.2-104(1) and a “seller” of motor vehicles under § 8.2-313.

1891. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Va. Code §§ 8.2-105(1) and 8.2-313.

1892. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1893. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

1894. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

1895. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

1896. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

1897. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1898. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1899. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

1900. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1901. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

1902. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1903. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1904. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1905. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Virginia Subclass.

1906. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

1907. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1908. Thus, all Virginia Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1909. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1910. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1911. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1912. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

AA. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Washington Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE WASHINGTON CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(WASH. REV. CODE ANN. § 19.86.010, ET SEQ.)

1913. Plaintiffs Karen Stedman and Cameron Webster (“Plaintiffs,” for purposes of all Washington Subclass Counts) incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1914. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Washington Subclass.

1915. FCA, Plaintiff, and the Washington Subclass members are each a “person” under WASH. REV. CODE ANN. § 19.86.010(1) (“Washington CPA”).

1916. FCA engaged in “trade” or “commerce” under WASH. REV. CODE ANN. § 19.86.010(2).

1917. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein was unsafe, and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1918. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter and knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1919. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle's occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1920. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Washington CPA.

1921. In the course of FCA's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the dangerous risk posed by the many safety issues and serious defects discussed above. FCA compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that FCA branded vehicles were safe, reliable, of high quality, and by claiming to be of a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

1922. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1923. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass.

1924. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Washington CPA.

1925. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1926. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1927. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1928. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1929. Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Washington CPA.

1930. FCA's actions constituted a generalized course of deception that impacts the public interest because Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass were injured in exactly the same way as millions of others purchasing and/or leasing FCA vehicles, and the failure to follow the practices pertaining to motor vehicle warranties in WASH. REV. CODE ANN. § 19.118 is recognized by statute as matters vitally affecting the public interest. All of the wrongful conduct alleged herein occurred, and continues to occur, in the conduct of FCA's business and has the potential for repetition.

1931. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Washington CPA, Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1932. FCA's actions as set forth above induced Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass members to purchase their Class Vehicles from FCA and/or pay a higher price for their Class Vehicles than they otherwise would have.

1933. Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass were injured as a result of FCA's conduct. Due to FCA's deceptive or unfair conduct, Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass overpaid for their Class Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain. Their vehicles have also suffered a diminution in value.

1934. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1935. Pursuant to WASH. REV. CODE ANN. § 19.86.095, Plaintiffs will serve the Washington Attorney General with a copy of this complaint as Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass members seek injunctive relief.

1936. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of contract, Plaintiffs and the Washington Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, attorneys' fees, costs, treble damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

1937. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1938. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Washington Subclass.

1939. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

1940. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

1941. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

1942. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

1943. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

1944. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

1945. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

1946. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

1947. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (WASH. REV. CODE § 62A.2-313)

1948. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1949. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Washington Subclass.

1950. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under WASH. REV. CODE § 62A.2-104(1) and a "seller" of motor vehicles under §§ 62A.2-103(1)(d) and 62A.2-313.

1951. The Class Vehicles are and were at all relevant times "goods" within the meaning of WASH. REV. CODE §§ 62A.2-105(1) and 62A.2-313.

1952. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

1953. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of its Class Vehicles.

1954. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiffs and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defective Defective Shifter system from FCA.

1955. Plaintiffs and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiffs and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defective Defective Shifter free of charge.

1956. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles’ materials and workmanship defects.

1957. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

1958. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole, and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

1959. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiffs and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seek all remedies as allowed by law.

1960. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

1961. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiffs and the other Class members whole.

1962. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including complaints to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

1963. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (WASH. REV. CODE § 62A.2-314)

1964. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1965. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Washington Subclass.

1966. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

1967. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

1968. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

1969. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

1970. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1971. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Washington Subclass.

1972. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiffs and the Class and inequity has resulted.

1973. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiffs and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

1974. Thus, all Washington Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

1975. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

1976. Plaintiffs were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

1977. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

1978. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

BB. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Wisconsin Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE WISCONSIN
DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(WIS. STAT. § 110.18)

1979. Plaintiff Marc Hughes ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Wisconsin Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

1980. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Wisconsin Subclass.

1981. FCA is a "person, firm, corporation or association" within the meaning of WIS. STAT. § 100.18(1).

1982. Plaintiff and Wisconsin Subclass Members are members of "the public" within the meaning of WIS. STAT. § 100.18(1). Plaintiff and Wisconsin Subclass Members purchased or leased one or more Affected Vehicles.

1983. The Wisconsin Deceptive Trade Practices Act (“Wisconsin DTPA”) prohibits a “representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading.” WIS. STAT. § 100.18(1).

1984. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

1985. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

1986. FCA was also aware that it valued profits over safety, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not perform as advertised and jeopardized the safety of the vehicle’s occupants. FCA concealed this information as well.

1987. By failing to disclose that the defectively designed Defective Shifter was not safe and had no safety override, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, FCA engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Wisconsin DTPA.

1988. FCA's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members, about the true performance of the Class Vehicles, the quality of the FCA brand, the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, and the true value of the Class Vehicles.

1989. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Wisconsin Subclass.

1990. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Wisconsin DTPA.

1991. As alleged above, FCA made material statements about the safety and utility of the Class Vehicles and the FCA brand that were either false or misleading.

1992. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

1993. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

1994. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Wisconsin Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

1995. Plaintiff and the Wisconsin Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA.

1996. FCA had an ongoing duty to all FCA customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive practices under the Wisconsin DTPA. All owners of the Class Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of FCA's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of FCA's business.

1997. FCA's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. FCA's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

1998. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Wisconsin DTPA, Plaintiffs and the Wisconsin Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

1999. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective

Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

2000. Plaintiff and the Wisconsin Subclass are entitled to damages and other relief provided for under WIS. STAT. § 100.18(11)(b)(2). Because FCA's conduct was committed knowingly and/or intentionally, Plaintiff and the Wisconsin Subclass are entitled to treble damages.

2001. Plaintiff and the Wisconsin Subclass also seek court costs and attorneys' fees under WIS. STAT. § 110.18(11)(b)(2).

COUNT II
FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

2002. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2003. This claim is brought on behalf of the Wisconsin Subclass.

2004. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

2005. FCA further affirmatively concealed from Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Class Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

2006. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

2007. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

2008. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

2009. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

2010. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's reputation – along with FCA's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the Defective Shifters – in purchasing or leasing FCA's Class Vehicles.

2011. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Class Vehicles.

2012. FCA's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY (WIS. STAT. § 402.313)

2013. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2014. This claim is brought on behalf of members of the Wisconsin Class.

2015. FCA is and was at all relevant times a "merchant" with respect to motor vehicles under Wisconsin Statutes §§ 402.104(3) and a "seller" of motor vehicles under 402.313.

2016. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times "goods" within the meaning of Wisconsin Statutes §§ 402.105(1)(c) and 402.313.

2017. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty ("NVLW") for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

2018. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

2019. FCA’s warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

2020. Plaintiff and the Class members experienced defects within the warranty period. Despite the existence of warranties, FCA failed to inform Plaintiff and Class members that the Class Vehicles were defectively designed, and failed to fix the defectively designed Defective Shifter free of charge.

2021. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles’ materials and workmanship defects.

2022. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

2023. Furthermore, the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect fails in its essential purpose because the contractual remedy is insufficient to make Plaintiff and Class members whole and because FCA has failed and/or has refused to adequately provide the promised remedies within a reasonable time.

2024. Accordingly, recovery by Plaintiff and the other Class members is not limited to the limited warranty promising to repair and/or correct a manufacturing defect, and Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks all remedies as allowed by law.

2025. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

2026. Moreover, many of the injuries flowing from the Class Vehicles cannot be resolved through the limited remedy of "replacements or adjustments," as many incidental and consequential damages have already been suffered due to FCA's fraudulent conduct as alleged herein. Due to FCA's failure and/or continued failure to provide such limited remedy within a reasonable time, any limitation on Plaintiff's and the other Class members' remedies would be insufficient to make Plaintiff and the other Class members whole.

2027. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

2028. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of express warranties, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be determined at trial.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (WIS. STAT. §§ 402.314 AND 411.212)

2029. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

2030. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Wisconsin Subclass.

2031. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

2032. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

2034. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

2035. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2036. This claim is brought on behalf of members of the Wisconsin Class who purchased the Affected Vehicles

2038. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective

Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

2039. Thus, all Wisconsin Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

2040. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

2041. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

2042. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

2043. As a result of FCA's conduct, the amount of its unjust enrichment should be disgorged, in an amount according to proof.

CC. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Wyoming Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE WYOMING CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(WYO. STAT. §§ 40-12-101, ET SEQ.)

2044. Plaintiff Ann Magnuson ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Wyoming Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2045. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Wyoming Subclass.

2046. Plaintiff, the Wyoming Subclass and FCA are "persons" within the meaning of Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-102(a)(i).

2047. The Class Vehicles are "merchandise" pursuant to Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-102(a)(vi).

2048. Each sale or lease of a Class Vehicle to a Plaintiff or Wyoming Subclass member was a “consumer transaction” as defined by Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-102(a)(ii). These consumer transactions occurred “in the course of [Volkswagen’s] business” under Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-105(a). Plaintiff and Wyoming Subclass members purchased or leased one or more Class Vehicle.

2049. The Wyoming Consumer Protection Act (“Wyoming CPA”) prohibits lists unlawful deceptive trade practices, including when a seller: “(i) Represents that merchandise has a source, origin, sponsorship, approval, accessories, or uses it does not have;” “(iii) Represents that merchandise is of a particular standard, grade, style or model, if it is not;” “(x) Advertises merchandise with intent not to sell it as advertised;” “(xv) Engages in unfair or deceptive acts or practices.” Wyo. Stat. §§ 40-12-105(a).

2050. In the course of its business, FCA willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter discussed herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. FCA also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression, or omission, in connection with the sale of the Class Vehicles.

2051. FCA knew it had installed a defectively designed Defective Shifter, knew that the Defective Shifter was not safe, as advertised, and had no override system to prevent roll-away incidents, even though its competitors used such override systems. FCA knew this for at least two years, but concealed all of that information.

2055. FCA intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Class Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiff and the Wyoming Subclass.

2056. FCA knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Wyoming CPA.

2058. FCA owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because FCA:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits and cost-cutting over safety and performance, and that it was manufacturing, selling, and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that included a defectively designed Defective Shifter and did not perform as advertised;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiff and the Class; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety and performance of the Class Vehicles generally, and the defective Defective Shifter in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class that contradicted these representations.

2059. Because FCA fraudulently concealed the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of cars equipped with the Defective

Shifter, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the defects finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Class Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by FCA's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

2060. FCA's fraudulent use of the defectively designed Defective Shifter and the true performance of the Class Vehicles were material to Plaintiff and the Wyoming Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe, high-performing vehicles is safer and worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of unsafe, vehicles that conceals defects rather than promptly remedying them.

2061. Plaintiff and the Wyoming Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by FCA's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information. Class members who purchased the Class Vehicles either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all but for FCA's violations of the Wyoming CPA.

2064. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's violations of the Wyoming CPA, Plaintiffs and the Wyoming Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

2066. Pursuant to Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-108(a), Plaintiff and the Wyoming Subclass seek damages as determined at trial, and any other just and proper relief available under the Wyoming CPA, including but not limited to court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees as provided in Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-108(b).

2067. On July 8, 2016, certain Plaintiffs sent a letter complying with Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-109. Because Volkswagen failed to offer to cure, or failed to complete a remedy of its deceptive trade acts and practices within the required time period, see Wyo. Stat. § 40-12-102(a)(ix), Plaintiffs seek all damages and relief available under the Wyoming CPA.

COUNT II
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

2068. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2069. This claim is brought on behalf of the Wyoming Subclass.

2070. FCA intentionally concealed the above-described material safety and functionality information, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

2072. FCA knew at the time it actively concealed this information that this information was material.

2073. The Class Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, unsafe, and unreliable because the Class Vehicles contained faulty and defective Defective Shifters, as alleged herein.

2074. FCA owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, performance, and reliability of the Class Vehicles, and the devaluing of safety and performance at FCA, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on FCA's material representations that the Class Vehicles they were purchasing were safe and free from defects.

2075. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Class Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

COUNT III
BREACH OF EXPRESS WARRANTY
(WYO. STAT. § 34.1-2-313)

2079. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2080. This claim is brought on behalf of members of the Wyoming Subclass.

2081. FCA is and was at all relevant times a “merchant” with respect to motor vehicles under Wyo. Stat. §§ 34.1-2-104(a) and 34.1-2.A-103(a)(xx), and “sellers” of motor vehicles under § 34.1-2-103(a)(iv).

2082. With respect to leases, FCA is and was at all relevant times “lessors” of motor vehicles under Wyo. Stat. § 34.1-2.A-103(a)(xvi).

2083. The Affected Vehicles are and were at all relevant times “goods” within the meaning of Wyo. Stat. §§ 34.1-2-105(a) and 34.1-2.A-103(a)(viii).

2084. In connection with the purchase or lease of each one of its new vehicles, FCA provides an express New Vehicle Limited Warranty (“NVLW”) for a period of three years or 36,000 miles, whichever occurs first. This NVLW exists to cover “defect in materials or workmanship.” FCA also provides a powertrain limited warranty that covers the engine and transmission, including the shifter assembly for five years or 100,000 miles, whichever occurs first, for the Class Vehicles (FCA has, since the 2016 model year, reduced its powertrain warranty to five years or 60,000 miles).

2085. As a manufacturer of light-duty vehicles, FCA was required to provide these warranties to purchasers of the Class Vehicles.

2086. FCA's warranties formed the basis of the bargain that was reached when Plaintiff and other Class members purchased or leased their Class Vehicles equipped with the defectively designed Defective Shifter.

2088. FCA breached the express warranty promising to repair and correct a manufacturing defect or materials or workmanship of any part supplied by FCA. FCA has not repaired or adjusted, and has been unable to repair or adjust, the Class Vehicles' materials and workmanship defects.

2089. Affording FCA a reasonable opportunity to cure its breach of written warranties would be unnecessary and futile here.

2092. Also, as alleged in more detail herein, at the time FCA warranted and sold the Class Vehicles, it knew that the Class Vehicles did not conform to FCA's warranties and were inherently defective, and FCA wrongfully and fraudulently concealed material facts regarding its Class Vehicles. Plaintiff and the other Class members were therefore induced to purchase or lease the Class Vehicles under false and/or fraudulent pretenses.

2094. FCA was provided notice of these issues by numerous complaints filed against it, including those submitted to NHTSA and the instant Complaint, within a reasonable amount of time after the defect was discovered.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (WYO. STAT. §§ 34.1-2-314 AND 34.1-2.A-212)

2096. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

2097. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Wisconsin Subclass.

2098. FCA is and was at all relevant times a merchant with respect to motor vehicles.

2099. A warranty that the Class Vehicles were in merchantable condition is implied by law in the instant transactions. These Class Vehicles, when sold and at all times thereafter, were not in merchantable condition and are not fit for the ordinary purpose for which cars are used. Specifically, the Class Vehicles are inherently defective in that the Defective Shifter was not adequately designed, manufactured, and tested.

2100. FCA was provided notice of these issues by complaints lodged by consumers with NHTSA—which vehicle manufacturers like FCA routinely monitor—before or within a reasonable amount of time after the allegations of the Class Vehicle defects became public.

2101. As a direct and proximate result of FCA's breach of the warranties of merchantability, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial.

COUNT V
UNJUST ENRICHMENT

2102. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

2103. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Wyoming Subclass.

2104. FCA has received and retained a benefit from Plaintiff and inequity has resulted.

2105. FCA has benefitted from selling and leasing defective cars whose value was artificially inflated by FCA's concealment of the defective Defective Shifter at a profit, and Plaintiff and the Class have overpaid for the cars and been forced to pay other costs.

2106. Thus, all Wyoming Subclass members conferred a benefit on FCA.

2107. It is inequitable for FCA to retain these benefits.

2108. Plaintiff and the Class were not aware of the true facts about the Class Vehicles, and did not benefit from FCA's conduct.

2109. FCA knowingly accepted the benefits of its unjust conduct.

VIII. REQUEST FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of members of the Class, respectfully request that the Court enter judgment in their favor and against Defendant, as follows:

- A. Certification of the proposed Class, including appointment of Plaintiffs' Counsel as Class Counsel;
- B. An order temporarily and permanently enjoining FCA from continuing the unlawful, deceptive, fraudulent, and unfair business practices alleged in this Complaint;
- C. Appropriate injunctive relief;
- D. Equitable relief in the form of buyback of the Class Vehicles;
- E. Costs, restitution, damages, including statutory and punitive damages, penalties, and disgorgement in an amount to be determined at trial;
- F. An order requiring FCA to pay both pre- and post-judgment interest on any amounts awarded;
- G. An award of costs and attorneys' fees; and
- H. Such other or further relief as may be appropriate.

IX. DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiffs hereby demand a jury trial for all claims so triable.
